Trouble seen for tax rebate

Washington (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee Monday approved a bill that would send rebates of $30 to most Americans this spring and permanently cut the taxes of 46 million couples or individuals.

The 10-8 approval vote signals trouble for President Carter when it reaches the Senate floor, probably late next week.

Although all ten committee Democrats voted for the bill, some say they may oppose it on the floor because they think the key feature, the rebate, will have little effect on the economy.

Pound dip boosts exports

London (AP) — The British luxury car manufacturer Rolls-Royce said Monday its 1976 overseas sales and profits were up substantially over the previous year thanks to the decline in the British pound.

The decline in the British currency means British exports, including the prestigious Rolls Royces, are relatively cheaper on world markets. A company spokesman in New York said suggested retail prices for Rolls Royces sold in the United States range from $42,900 to $90,000.

Quake strikes Iran port

Tehran, Iran (UPI) — A major earthquake struck the bustling Persian Gulf port and resort city of Bandar Abbas early Tuesday causing heavy damage and chasing most of the residents into the streets, witnesses said.

The first of four tremors shook the ground for 20 seconds. The seismological center in Tehran said the first shock registered 7 on the Richter Scale.

Mustangs, Cougars recalled

Detroit (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Monday the recall of more than one-half million of its 1968 and 1969 Ford Mustangs and Mercury Cougars with bucket seats because the driver's seat-back could collapse.

Ford said 480,000 U.S.-made cars are included in the recall, along with 32,000 in Canada and 1,000 in other countries.

Zaire wants more weapons

Washington (AP) — Zaire has asked for increased U.S. military aid, including a wide range of ammunition, to meet an invasion of rebel troops from neighboring Angola, administration sources said Monday.

Welding mishap blamed

Camp Lejeune, N.C. (AP) — Survivors of the shattered Panamanian oil tanker Claude Conway said Monday that a welding mishap blew the 43,000-ton vessel apart, killing the captain, the radio operator and eight other crew members.

The U.S. Coast Guard said 27 crew members were rescued and 12 remained missing as search and rescue operations continued at the site, 120 miles southeast of this Marine base.

Gunman frees hostages

Baltimore (AP) — A part-time employee of a security agency, armed with two handguns, held at least 30 employees of a municipal office hostage for 30 minutes Monday before freeing them unharmed and surrendering to police a short time later.

The gunman, identified as Anthony Patrick Griffin, 30, was described by a minister as having problems paying his rent and gas bills.

Farm income floor would rise

(c) New York Times

Washington — Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said Monday he was recommending a new four-year farm bill that would provide substantial increases in income guarantees for farmers.

Bergland also said he had recommended to President Carter a new policy of price supports and tightened import quotas for sugar.

The secretary said that before he could outline his proposed farm program at a scheduled appearance Wednesday before the Senate Agriculture Committee, it would first have to be cleared by Carter. A White House decision is expected Tuesday, Bergland said.

"We'll use the lower range on cost of production," he said in an interview with reporters and editors of The New York Times. "We'll hear a lot of cries of complaints from farmers who say they can't grow their crops for that."

But Bergland's recommended guarantees and commodity loans would be higher than those already proposed by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

As part of an administration farm bill, Bergland said, he is also recommending a one-year extension of the Food-for-Peace program and a two-year extension of the food stamp program. He said the bill would also include a new grain-reserve plan.

"We are going to continue a market-oriented farm program," Bergland said, with the principal mechanisms of the current law, which expires this year, to be retained without change.

That law, passed in 1973, set up a system of "target prices," which offer farmers a guaranteed income. If actual market prices should fall below the "target," the farmers would be given "deficiency payments" representing the difference.

Farmers can also get commodity loans, known as price-support loans, when they elect to withhold their crops from the market. The commodities involved are then stored and used as security for the loans.

Bergland did not specify the dollar amount of the target prices that would be provided under his plan, but his production-cost formula would include a land-cost factor based on current value plus 3%.

The Talmadge plan would use an average of acquisition costs — a lower figure — and current land values. Under his plan, the target price for wheat would be $2.91 a bushel, for corn $2.28 a bushel and for cotton 51 cents a pound.

The current target prices are $2.47 a bushel for wheat, $1.70 for corn and $47.8 cents a pound for cotton.

The Talmadge plan would set loan rates at $2.18 a bushel for wheat, $1.71 a bushel for corn and 38.33 cents a pound for cotton.

Bergland said he was proposing loan rates of $2.25 a bushel for wheat and $2.10 a bushel for corn. The loan rate for cotton would be set at 85% of an average level of domestic market prices.

In a major departure from current policy, Bergland would also scrap the system of acreage allotments of major crops for individual farms as a basis for payment. Those allotments have been unused for many years as a measure of what farmers may plant, but they are still used as a basis for eligibility for deficiency payments.

Under Bergland's plan, he would be free to base eligibility for deficiency payments either on the anticipated yields from actual planted acreage or on anticipated yields from an estimate of acreages needed to meet goals.

The secretary's grain-reserve plan would use the device of the price-support loans to encourage farmers to store crops in good years to sell in years of shortages. The farmers would enter contracts to store the grain, and be freed of their contract obligation whenever market prices rose to 140% of the loan rate.

The secretary said he had also recommended price supports of 13.5 cents a pound for sugar and an import quota of 4.4 million tons a year.

Gunman in Toronto bank frees hostages, gives up

Toronto (AP) — An armed Canadian who took over a downtown bank branch and said he wanted to be flown to see Idi Amin surrendered his last hostages and gave himself up late Monday night after holding police at bay for almost 12 hours, police announced.

The man, who identified himself as Bob McLagan, 38, of Vancouver, apparently laid down his sawed-off shotgun, and four heavily armed members of the police emergency task force entered the branch of the Bank Canadian National to take him into custody.

The gunman held four hostages in the final hours of the siege: three male bank employees and police Sgt. Bill Donaldson. In the last hours, Donaldson apparently was free to move in and out of the building, bringing in coffee and sandwiches and talking with McLagan.

McLagan entered the bank just before noon and took nearly 20 hostages. He said he had been a mercenary soldier in Africa, admired the Ugandan president, whom he called "my pal," and wanted a plane to fly him to Uganda.

Radio commentator Charles Doering of station CFRB, who entered the bank as a negotiator after the gunman asked to talk with a reporter, said when he returned most of the captives had been released. But the man held Donaldson, who had entered the bank unarmed with Doering.

Assistant bank manager Michael Plouffe, one of the hostages held until the end, reported by telephone: "Some of us are afraid and some of us are not. He has told us that he will not shoot us and that if shooting starts, to lay down on the floor and not move."

Doering reported that McLagan "absolutely refused to give himself up, even knowing that he'll only do a few years for what he has already done. He just said, 'There's no blanket-blank way I'm doing any time at all. I want to see my pal Idi Amin. I've never met the man, but I'm a fan of his.'"

McLagan told Doering he had been a mercenary in the Congo, now Zaire, in 1965 "and I just want to get back down in that area . . . I killed people back there in the Congo. God, more than I can remember, and I want to do it again."

Police, including sharpshooters wearing bullet-proof vests, surrounded the bank. They said the man fired two warning shots at them about 2½ hours after taking the hostages. Ambulances stood by, but there were no known injuries.

Asked about the shots, McLagan told Doering he fired "because those cops are around. The first one into the ceiling was to show I meant business. The second was down the stairwell at the cops who were . . . down there."

Police said the gunman's brother from Hamilton, Ont., and a sister from Mississauga, Ont., arrived at the bank to talk with him.

McLagan demanded to be flown to Uganda in a C130 Hercules transport plane. This is the type of aircraft Israeli commandos used in their rescue of more than 100 hijack hostages.

Fall from dorm kills Nebraskan

Lawrence, Kan. (UPI) — Authorities are investigating the death of a University of Kansas student whose body was found on the roof of a university residence hall early Monday.

The victim was identified as Thomas Alan Hoelting, 21, Lawrence, Neb., who apparently fell from the west wing of McCollum Hall, a dormitory, and onto the lower roof of an entrance area to the building. University officials tentatively ruled the death accidental.

Hoelting, a graduate student, was a resident of the eighth floor of the 10-story building. The body was reported on the roof by a resident of nearby Ellsworth Hall who saw it from Ellsworth.

Coroner Alan Sanders said the death occurred between 7:15 and 8 a.m. Monday. Hoelting died of severe internal injuries and a fracture skull. A university spokesman said it was uncertain exactly what window the victim fell from.

The spokesman said Hoelting apparently was last seen alive by a residence hall adviser about 7:30 a.m.

Exon vetoes increase in ADC as too costly

By Lynn Zersching

Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon handed down his first veto of the 1977 legislative session Monday, chiding state senators for disregarding his hold-the-line spending policy.

Exon vetoed LB179 which would increase aid to dependent children (ADC) payments to welfare parents. That measure and an accompanying appropriation bill would cost the state more money than the program Exon sponsored.

Omaha Sen. Ernest Chamber's proposal calls for a $3.1 million appropriation from the state general fund, plus another $3.5 million in federal funds and a $500,000 increase in medicaid spending, Exon said. His ADC program would cost $1.2 million from state coffers and $1.4 million from the federal treasury.

Chamber's bill would authorize a parent with one child to receive $256 a month, plus another $60 a month for each additional child. The current limits are $210 and $42.

Exon's proposal, encompassed in LB496, would increase ADC payments to $235 for a parent with one child, plus $50 for each additional child.

"Regardless of your good intentions," Exon told the senators, "you have passed these bills without consideration as to the state's ability to meet these additional expenditures."

The governor reminded the lawmakers he has set a $473 million spending limit. Any programs which would push the ceiling above that amount will increase taxes, Exon asserted.

Instead of proposing programs which cost more money than Exon has proposed in his budget, he again suggested the Legislature could change his recommendations within the total.

The senators could "make reductions and additions, where you think best, as my recommendations are not considered infallible."

Until the senators address themselves to that $473 million spending limit, Exon warned, "you leave me no choice but to reject your large increased spending proposals."

Chambers announced he will seek an override of the governor's veto of the two bills. If senators vote on the override measure like they did on the original bills, the Legislature would overturn the governor's veto.

LB179, which increases the ADC payments, was passed with three votes more than necessary for an override to be approved, while the companion funding bill passed with one extra vote. It takes 30 votes to override a veto.

Warner urges university to review central system

By Don Walton

Star Staff Writer

Legislative Appropriations Committee Chairman Jerome Warner Monday urged the University of Nebraska to take a fresh look at its central systemwide administrative structure.

The time may be right for a review of whether the central system is properly structured, Warner told NU Interim President Ronald Roskens and Regent Kermit Hansen of Omaha.

Warner specifically asked Hansen if he would be willing to raise that issue at the April meeting of the Board of Regents. Hansen said he would.

Roskens has already proposed to the regents what he called a "penetrating and dispassionate" study of the present arrangement, and he told Warner he hopes to have a specific proposal ready in a month or two.

Hansen said the regents are "supporting the in-house review" proposed by Roskens, but he would be willing to also raise the possibility of a review by outside professional consultants.

Such a study could probably be undertaken for $15,000 to $25,000, Hansen guessed.

The central administrative structure has been under fire for some time, not only by Gov. J. James Exon but by campus faculty members as well.

Exon has recommended a slash in budgeting for the systemwide administrative operation.

Although he said he is willing to raise the issue of a review with other regents, Hansen said he is a supporter of a strong systems office.

Without it, he said, NU would become "three separate universities."

The central administration now oversees operations at the university's campuses in Lincoln, the University of Nebraska and the Medical Center.

Warner's concerns were raised at the opening session of a three-day hearing on NU's fiscal 1977-78 budget request.

The university is asking for a boost in state tax support from $64.6 million to $111.9 million. Exon has recommended a $100.8 million figure.

NU's request includes an 8½% increase in salaries for faculty members.

The budget also envisions a 5% tuition hike for most students, Roskens said. A higher percentage increase would be proposed for medical students.

Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln asked the president what would be the result of a sharp cut (he mentioned $1 million) in the central administration budget.

Such a slash would "virtually eliminate" coordination among the campuses, staff assistance for the regents and planning efforts, Roskens said. It would probably mean more competition and unnecessary duplication on the campuses, he said.

The central administration general fund budget now stands at about $3.8 million, most of it to finance the systemwide computer network. NU is asking for $4.5 million in 1977-78.

UNO Interim Chancellor Herbert Garfinkel presented the first campus request, a bid for nearly $15 million in state tax support. UNO now receives $12.7 million; the governor has recommended a $13.4 million figure.

The request includes $500,000 in so-called "parity" money, designed to provide UNO with comparable funding support for comparable programs on the Lincoln campus.

Fowler indicated that he might seek to delay any further parity funding until the committee has completed its planned study of the issue after the 1977 legislative session adjourns.

Sen. Douglas Berester of Uteka questioned whether a funding formula can be accurately applied to the parity issue. What is needed, he suggested, is comparable quality, rather than comparable funding.

UNO received $300,000 in parity funding for this fiscal year.

Heart team radio taken at accident

While a Bryan Hospital Mobile Heart Team was trying to help victims of Sunday morning's traffic fatality at 16th and Avery, a thief stole its expensive two-way radio.

Hospital representative Jim Gember said a nurse left the $1,100 radio outside one of the wrecked vehicles while she helped one of the people involved. When she turned to get the radio it was gone.

A University of Nebraska student, Victor Johnson, was killed in the crash and two people were injured. "We have to assume that the radio was stolen," Gember said Monday. The radio is a General Electric model, about six inches wide, and is used to communicate with the hospital emergency room.

The radio is marked with Bryan I.D. #11408. If found, Gember said, the hospital should be notified.

Police also said that a Lincoln woman who stopped at the accident scene to help has reported her purse was stolen. Deonae Fearing, 31, of 632 New Hampshire, told police she left the purse in her car when she got out, and it was gone when she returned.

Brezhnev denounces U.S. appeals

Moscow (UPI) — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev denounced U.S. appeals for human rights Monday in a flat-pounding speech warning the Carter administration its comments on Kremlin affairs will have an "unthinkable" effect on détente.

In his toughest speech since the pre-détente era of the Vietnam War, Brezhnev said he will not accept "Washington's claims to teach others how to live," and vowed the Soviet Union will continue its crackdown against dissidents.

Brezhnev also offered a new Soviet position on the Middle East — a peace plan calling for Israel's withdrawal in stages, rather than immediately, from occupied Arab territories and establishment of an internationally guaranteed demilitarized zone.

"We will not tolerate interference in our internal affairs by anyone and under any pretext," the Communist Party general secretary told more than 5,000 cheering delegates to a congress of Soviet national trade unions.

"A normal development of relations on such a basis is unthinkable," Brezhnev said, thumping the podium for emphasis. Brezhnev noted that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will visit Moscow next week on a trip primarily aimed at securing a new strategic arms limitation agreement.

"We will see what he will bring with him," he said. "Everybody, of course, realizes the importance of how Soviet-American relations will develop further."

"We would like these relations to be good-neighborly ones. But this requires a definite level of mutual understanding and at least a minimum of mutual tact."

Western diplomats said the speech was the toughest and most definitive Kremlin policy statement yet on the human rights issue.

Brezhnev said "big objective possibilities for further developing equal and mutually advantageous cooperation" between Moscow and Washington have been affected by a "certain state of stagnation."

"The American side explained it at first by the election campaign in the United States, but the first two months of the new administration's stay in power in Washington do not seem to show a striving to overcome this stagnation," he said.

Brezhnev accused Moscow's opponents of inventing "the semblance of internal opposition" in socialist countries, asserting that in reality none exists.

He said there are "renegades" who have broken the law by anti-Soviet activity and turn for support abroad.

"Our people demand such so-to-speak public figures be treated as opponents of socialism, as persons acting against their own motherland, as accomplices, if not agents, of imperialism. Quite naturally we have taken and will take against them measures envisaged by law," Brezhnev said.

Secretary of state going to Russia despite Brezhnev's scorn

Washington (UPI) — President Carter Monday renewed ties with an old ally, Japan, and his chief spokesman said a planned American trip to Russia this week was going ahead on schedule despite some harsh criticism by Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

Carter divided his time between foreign and domestic affairs Monday, meeting two hours with his cabinet and opening talks with Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda.

Press secretary Jody Powell said the President would have no immediate comment on a speech by Brezhnev attacking the Carter human rights policy, or on the election defeat of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

However, both Powell and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said they hope Brezhnev's tough language does not bode ill for Vance's mission to Moscow, starting Friday, in an effort to get arms limitation talks off dead center.

As for Mrs. Gandhi's defeat, Powell said: "I do not think it's normally the practice to comment on elections in other countries."

Carter began his day with a two-hour cabinet meeting covering energy policy, national defense and other issues. Deputy press secretary Rex Granum said that for one thing, Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus told the gathering he felt investigation of natural gas leases on federal lands "will result in substantial amounts in the pipeline by next fall."

Later, Carter greeted Fukuda and they opened two days of talks. Japanese sources said the first meeting included a renewed pledge by the President that U.S. ground troops will be removed from South Korea.

Powell, asked about Brezhnev's comments, told reporters, "The administration of course is aware of the general secretary's statement. It's very long. It is being studied now. I have no comment."

But Powell said preparations for Vance's Moscow trip were going ahead, and "from all indications, both parties consider his trip to be an important step toward relieving the burden of the arms race and preventing nuclear destruction of all the people of the world."

Vance, talking with reporters, said he hoped Brezhnev's blast at the administration "will not inhibit our conversations when I go to Moscow on Friday."

"There is nothing more important than making progress towards reductions of nuclear arms," the secretary said.

Following the cabinet meeting, Granum said Carter complained that parts of his forthcoming comprehensive energy program was coming out "piecemeal" as a result of necessary consultations with groups on the subject.

Granum also reported that energy adviser James Schlesinger had received some 13,000 replies to some 450,000 White House letters soliciting the views of individuals and groups on energy conservation. Monday was the deadline for those suggestions.

W. German voters turn to the right

(c) New York Times

Bonn — While French voters were electing Socialists and Communists to city councils all over the country Sunday, West German voters in Frankfurt and Wiesbaden elected conservative majorities to their city councils after decades of socialist domination.

The worst defeat for Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's Social Democratic Party came in the industrial and financial metropolis of Frankfurt, where the Christian Democrats won more than 51% of the council seats. The city's veteran socialist mayor, Rudi Arndt (known as "Dynamite Rudi" for his approach to urban renewal) said Monday he might resign even before the April 1978 mayoral vote. Frankfurt is a city of 650,000 people.

But Social Democratic setbacks in Wiesbaden and most other major cities in the central state of Hesse, a socialist stronghold since the war, led party leaders to speak of "bitter disappointment" and even of a "conservative landslide" in the only elections that will be held in West Germany this year. Hesse will not elect a new state legislature until next year.

Fifth grader milks cow

A fifth grader from Webster Magnet Elementary School in St. Paul, Minn., got her chance Monday to milk a cow for the first time. It was part of the Minnesota Agriculture Day program. The American Dairy Association provided the cow along with a talk on what the cow eats and how much milk she gives. A hundred children were allowed to try their hands at milking.

Carter to boost milk price 6.2¢

Washington (AP) — President Carter has decided to increase government milk price supports by almost 9%, a move which would eventually boost the retail price of milk by 6.2 cents per gallon, sources said Monday.

Agriculture Secretary Bob S. Bergland, who favored only a 5% boost, is expected to announce the decision at a news conference Tuesday morning.

USDA figures show that the average retail price nationwide of a gallon of milk last October was about $1.67, with 57% of it going to the farmer. By January, the consumer paid an average of about $1.66 a gallon, with the farmer getting 54%.

By law, price supports can be set now between 75 and 90% of parity, a formula designed to give farmers the same buying power they had in 1910-1914, when costs and income were said to be in balance.

The current rate of $8.28 per 100 pounds was set last Oct. 1, an increase from $8.13.

The current rate was 80% of parity when it was set, but costs have risen since then and the $8.28 will be only about 75% of parity April 1, when a new level must be set under the law.

Carter chose 83% of parity or $9 per 100 pounds.

Patrick B. Healy, secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation, said an 80% level was recommended by his group because "my people think that's all the market will stand right now."

Earlier this month, the Council on Wage and Price Stability said that even a simple readjustment to a 80% could raise consumer food prices by 0.2% in the next year and cost the government and grocery buyers an additional $1 billion.

The dairy industry and USDA have said an increase is needed to cover inflation in production costs, and the new law requires a new support level to be set every April 1.

Arizona's governor backslider

United Press International
In a copyrighted article on crime and corruption in Arizona, Investigative Reporters and Editors Inc. said that Gov. Raul Castro, international affairs attorney and former U.S. ambassador, has held meetings with a former client he himself describes as a "swindler."

The IRE also said Castro did not list a house he received as a legal fee as income on his taxes.

The IRE said Castro: —Dismissed suggestions of conflict of interest as well-intentioned mistakes.

—Appointed tough administrators to clean up the state police and corporate corruption, but his cronies get state building rental contracts by underbidding competition and then getting state approval for cost overruns and rent hikes.

—Appointed men to state office despite confidential reports that the men have questionable character.

—Campaigned against mob-connected businessmen he says have infested the state, yet insists he does not recognize some of their names among his campaign contributors.

The IRE is a team of nearly 40 journalists from 25 news organizations who investigated crime in Arizona following the bombing murder of Arizona Republic reporter Don Bolles.

Teenaged girl electrocuted

Oklahoma City (AP) — A high school girl was electrocuted while using a vacuum cleaner in a car she had just washed, police said.

Officers said Lisa Leann Hatfield, 16, a student at Putnam City High School, had washed the car in her front yard and the cord to the cleaner apparently shorted out in the wet grass.

She was dead on arrival at Mercy Health Center.

Personalities

Operation is to allow breathing

Six-month-old Anthony Taube, who risks death each time he sleeps, will undergo within the next month a rare operation which doctors hope will allow him to live normally.

Doctors at the Children's Hospital in Detroit will implant a device the size of a cigarette package in the baby's chest, to keep him breathing while he sleeps.

Because he has sleep apnea, a rare killer which causes a person to stop breathing when he sleeps, the child must be connected to a respirator when he sleeps.

Brown is overnight guest

California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., attending a dinner honoring the Japanese prime minister Monday, accepted an invitation to stay overnight at the White House.

It was not known where Brown, who sometimes uses a mattress on a floor, would sleep, the spokesman said.

Kurtz to be nominated

Philadelphia lawyer Jerome Kurtz will be nominated as commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, President Carter announced Monday.

Kiritsis' bond drops

Hostage-holder Anthony Kiritsis bond was reduced by an Indianapolis judge from $1.5 million to $750,000 Monday.

Kiritsis is charged with kidnapping, extortion and armed robbery in the abduction of realtor Richard O. Hall last month.

News, not entertainment

CBS News anchorman Walter Cronkite says he dislikes the "show business" approach of many local television news programs.

Cronkite told reporters he objects to the "happy talk" chatter some TV announcers use between stories.

"That's show business, not news," he said. "You can't run a television news show on the basis of Nielsen ratings."

Banks resigns AIM

Dennis Banks has resigned as executive director of the American Indian Movement, he has confirmed.

Banks said he felt he could not fulfill duties as head of AIM because he believes he has to remain in California.

Banks has been convicted in South Dakota on riot charges in connection with the 1973 incidents at Custer, S.D., which eventually evolved into the Wounded Knee confrontation.

Tire grading system upheld; Social Security cost held down

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court gave the green light Monday to a consumer-information program tire manufacturers say will cost $150 million a year and, in another case, saved the government an estimated $17.5 billion in Social Security payments.

The justices let stand the decisions of lower federal courts that a tire quality grading system planned by the Department of Transportation is valid.

Eight domestic tire makers, representing most of the nation's rubber manufacturing production, argued that the government does not have the extra teeth or technology to test their tires fairly.

The program, they said, will pass on increased costs to consumers needlessly.

Government attorneys disagreed with the manufacturers about the available technology and also about the program's yearly costs, which the government said would run about $46 million.

Consumers will pay about 23 cents more for each of the 200 million tires bought in the United States each year, the government said, but much of the mystery now attached to picking out tires for a car or truck will be cleared up.

The grading system is designed to give consumers a comparison of tire tread wear, that is, how much mileage can be expected, traction and temperature resistance.

The system, which will require a grading label on all tires, probably will be put into effect late this year.

Legislation passed by Congress in 1966 authorized the imposition of some type of uniform grading system but government experts did not issue proposed standards until 1975. Those standards were challenged immediately by the rubber industry.

The tire companies that unsuccessfully sought Supreme Court review are B.F. Goodrich, Goodyear, General Tire, Firestone, Uniroyal, Mansfield Tire and Rubber, Cooper Tire and Rubber and Armstrong Rubber.

In another decision, the court reversed what could have been a costly ruling for the government, one that would have given nine million men receiving Social Security benefits more money each month.

A federal court in New York had ruled that a 1972 amendment by Congress to the Social Security Act banning sex discrimination in benefits must be applied retroactively.

The Supreme Court said the lower court was wrong.

Prior to 1972, women were awarded slightly higher Social Security benefits than men with the same earnings because of differing formulas used to calculate benefits. The difference was written into the law in 1956 to compensate women for the nation's history of sex discrimination in hiring and promoting workers.

Congress eliminated the distinction in 1972, but men already receiving slightly less benefits than women were not compensated.

"The legislative history is clear that the differing treatment of men and women... was not the accidental byproduct of a traditional way of thinking about females but rather was deliberately enacted to compensate for particular disabilities suffered by women," the court said in an unsigned opinion.

"That Congress changed its mind... does not constitute an admission that its previous policy was invidiously discriminatory," the court said.

The court's decision is a major victory for the already financially shaky Social Security Trust Fund but represents a setback for those retired men who had hopes of increased benefits.

Those men were represented in a suit filed by Will Webster, 68, of Northport, N.Y., who said it wasn't fair that his monthly benefit check totals $185.70 but would be $204 if he were a woman.

Woodcock: Mission successful

Honolulu (UPI) — A White House commission to Hanoi and Vientiane returned to America Monday and immediately telephoned President Carter that it had accomplished its mission to seek information about U.S. servicemen missing in Indochina. Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers and chairman of the five-member commission, called Carter shortly after the group's Air Force jet landed. It was barely dawn at the White House.

The four men and one woman on the eight-day journey to Southeast Asia did not discuss their report publicly on the return flight, but their mood was one of quiet joy.

Carter sent the five to press for more data on the 2,500 Americans still listed as missing in Indochina. He also instructed them to listen — not reply — to what the Communist governments of Vietnam and Laos had to say.

The five received the remains of 12 American fliers lost in the Vietnam War.

themselves to observe and respect basic human rights. Thus, no member of the United Nations can claim that mistreatment of its citizens is solely its own business.

"Equally, no member can avoid its responsibilities to review and to speak when torture or unwarranted deprivation of freedom occurs in any part of the world."

This activist interventionist moralist approach to national and world affairs is generally admired, but also raises two questions here and elsewhere:

First, will it lead him into unnecessary adventures, as in his sudden shipment of supplies to Zaire the other day? What was the justification for this lurch into the African tangle? And why was it not discussed in advance with the Congress?

Second, how do you maintain some kind of balance between the major American political parties or even between the White House and the Congress, when the President has quick access to the radio and television networks, to helicopters and jet planes that enable him to whirl around the nation and dominate the news and the activities of the federal legislature? Especially when a president comes along who knows how to use this kind of power? This second question has often been debated here. What would happen if we had a president who had the ability and the will to reach an audience of millions any time he liked while the Senate was babbling away to itself?

Kennedy had the ability but not the will nor the energy to dominate the lines of communication. Johnson had the will and the energy, but not the ability. Ditto Jerry Ford. Nixon had the will and almost made the world safe for hypocrisy, but he didn't have the confidence or the courage to operate in the open.

Carter, however, has the ability, the energy, and even the determination to use these modern instruments. He even speaks in sentences — an almost unprecedented presidential gift — and he risks exposure of his thought, even before he has refined it into policy.

Washington doesn't quite know what to make of all this. The man keeps telling the truth about this tormented world and acting like a normal human being. While everybody else sees the problems, he says: "I see a hopeful world. We are eager to take part in the shaping of this world." Which may or not be true of the nation as a whole, but Jimmy Carter is certainly eager.

(c) New York Times Service

Washington — Jimmy Carter is turning into the greatest advertising salesman since J. Walter Thompson. He is using the powers of the presidency and the powers of modern communications to the full and is clearly answering the question that has been on everybody's mind: He's going to be an activist, interventionist president.

The man is all over the place. In a single week, he intervened in the skirmishes between Angola and Zaire, wiped out all remaining travel restrictions on American citizens, signed the ban on the importation of chrome from Rhodesia, and asked the Congress to raise U.S. foreign aid from $6.3 billion to $7.4 billion.

That was only part of his agenda. Meanwhile, he flew to Clinton, Mass., for a televised town meeting with the locals, spent the night in a stranger's house, flew on to Charleston, W.Va., for a seminar on the energy crisis, and showed up later that night for another nationwide TV address to the United Nations.

He even had time to get a new hair-do — shorter in front and longer in back — and he ended the week by swapping jokes with the members of the Gridiron Club and their guests here in the capital. At this rate, if he were paid by the hour, he wouldn't even make the minimum wage.

A pattern is beginning to emerge from all this — a patchwork pattern but still fairly clear. He is obviously trying to prove Woodrow Wilson's dictum that if a president can dominate the lines of communication and strike the popular mood of the people, no political force can stand against him, but he is going about this in a most unusual way.

He is not laying out broad and sweeping new programs carefully defined in advance, and asking for support. He is not even saying that he has the answers to our problems. But he is not deterred by the complexities and ambiguities of modern life, and seems determined to clarify these complexities and ambiguities even if he has no answer to them.

"We can only improve this world," he told the United Nations, "if we are realistic about its complexities. The disagreements we face are deeply rooted, and they often raise difficult philosophical as well as practical issues."

Thus on the issue of human rights, he knows that he cannot compel other nations to be humane or even decent to their citizens, but he rejects the notion that he should not speak out against inhumane treatment, even if the Soviets won't listen and the Latin Americans refuse our military aid.

He knew in advance that the Israelis and the Arabs would reject his suggestion that they accept the pre-1967 borders in a series of withdrawals over a number of years, but he threw it out anyway so that both sides would at least start thinking about it. Somebody had to change the question, he remarked privately.

He knew there was little chance that the Soviets would agree to "strict controls or even a freeze on new types and new generations of weaponry, with a deep reduction in the strategic arms on both sides," but he launched the idea anyway — again to expand the range of thought.

Most presidents since Wilson haven't acted this way. They have preferred to limit their proposals to what seemed attainable or to define their larger objectives in private discussions, but Carter ventures beyond the attainable and even beyond the normal boundaries of internal national affairs.

To Cain's question: "Am I my brother's keeper?" Carter answers Yes. "The search for peace and justice," he told the members of the U.N., means also respect for human dignity. All the signatories of the U.N. Charter have pledged

Winter calling card spurs imagination

Central and eastern Nebraska were a beautiful blanket of white after the weekend's heavy snow. Spring sprung on a sight which had almost become a faint memory.

There was snow in sufficient quantity and wet enough to play with. Snow sculptures in Lincoln told the story. Imaginations ran rampant at the end of the snow moratorium. Some rather bizarre creations could be counted along with the legion of traditional snowmen wearing mufflers and hats.

Another result of the assault by the large, heavy snowflakes: early gardening activity planned for the first spring weekend had to be postponed.

But home gardeners and farmers gladly would set aside field work temporarily for another and another such storm.

The moisture yielded by the heaven-sent snow will do wonders for plants already in the ground. Much more is needed, however, to get the soil back into good condition.

Out of prison, into office

Mrs. Gandhi's defeat in parliamentary elections in India will be seen as richly deserved in light of the fact that she had tried to extinguish the lights in the world's largest democracy.

To her credit, as an act of conciliation after her defeat she lifted the 20-month state of emergency imposed on India as a reaction to the activities of the opposition.

Under the emergency, rights were suspended, the press censored and thousands of the political opposition went to prison without trial.

The authoritarian way she dealt with political problems, along with the unpopular manner of administering such government programs as sterilization, ended her 11-year tenure as prime minister.

Appropriately, she was defeated in her home district, and her son Sanjay was defeated in his district, by opponents who had been imprisoned during the state of emergency. And Mrs. Gandhi may be replaced as prime minister by a formerly imprisoned opponent.

Democracy in India had become stale under the rule of Mrs. Gandhi and the Congress Party. It has been reinvigorated and the lessons learned from the crisis can apply beyond India's borders.

Bottle bill put to rest

The Legislature's refusal last week to pull the "bottle bill" out of committee killed the bill for this session and illustrated the overpowering lobbying clout of an unusual alliance: labor and management.

Bottling and can company owners opposed the measure placing a deposit on beverage containers and labor interests alleged such a bill would result in job losses.

The easily-lobbied Nebraska Legislature was an even easier pushover when labor and management combined forces.

Last in the shuffle again this year was popular input.

We have the feeling that container deposit legislation has grassroots support as a means to cut down on energy consumption and to clean up litter.

A recent poll in Iowa showed some 70% of the sample favoring bottle legislation. Similar support could be expected in Nebraska — especially in the rural areas.

A petition drive, now being talked about, to place a bottle bill on the ballot next year would be one way to test public will. Proponents could take their case directly to the people, avoiding another in the string of losing battles with the lobbyists and their friends in the Legislature.

The trees of Peking

Peking — A columnist given the opportunity to wander about the Forbidden City is tempted to try his hand at reporting.

To American eyes, a good story would be an indication of the consolidation of power by the new leadership of Hua Kuo-feng. For nearly six months, since the downfall of the "Gang of Four," China-watchers have been asking why the National Party Congress has not been called into session to place a seal of approval on the new leadership.

In particular, Westerners wonder why Chairman Hua felt it necessary to retain not only the posts of chairman of the party and premier of the country, but also his original power base as minister of public security. The beginning of such appointments would be taken as evidence of increasing stability.

Before probing this weighty matter, it seemed a good idea to try reporting about the commotion that took place in front of the Peking Hotel the other night.

When I went to bed, Chang An Boulevard — the long, wide avenue that becomes part of Tien An Men Square a couple of blocks down the road — was lined on both sides with 30-foot tall trees just about to bud in time for spring in Peking.

At about 2 a.m., an impressive display of manpower came around with ropes, saws and trucks. Amid much shouting of Chinese heave-ho's, the tireless workers spent the rest of the night tearing out all 300 trees by the roots.

Nobody thought the event was in the least noteworthy. Here was the main thoroughfare of the nation's capital, with a line of craters on each side making the center of the city look like the smile of a man who has just had all his teeth extracted, and not a soul to ask why.

So I asked why, and learned something about reporting in China.

The first answer, from a semi-official source at the scene, was: "Insects."

William Safire

Sounded logical, until I heard from a second source, who said that he was only guessing, but that the trees had grown to a height where they were blocking the street lighting as well as the view from the hotel and offices, and will be replaced by shorter trees.

A third explanation was put forward, by a cynical Western observer: the trees had grown to maturity and were simply being harvested for timber, which is scarce.

By this time, my patient and polite hosts were beginning to wonder why I pushed for answers on the trees.

It was hard to explain that in interpretive reporting, nothing is more important than a metaphor, and if I could understand the uprooting of the Chang An trees, I would parlay that into a theory about the uprooting of the "Gang of Four" whose following was being ripped out for "criticism" throughout Chinese society.

But there was no information available. All I had to show for two days of badgering was the unrelated fact that Chairman Hua had vacated the office of minister of public security, and that Hsinhua news agency would announce one of these weeks that the man chosen to replace him was named Chao Chang-pi, whose name is not exactly a household word but who is described as "a long-tested, veteran cadre."

Some day it would be good to interview Minister Chao Chang-pi. Not to ask about the size and scope of China's public security operations, or how he intends to keep order in what may be the last stages of a great political transition. But I would like to get the straight story of the trees.

Ode to an ex-caddy

Jim Bishop

New York — It was a soggy September. The rich sat on the porch of The Country Club sipping whiskey. They smiled sympathetically as the ex-caddy, Francis Ouimet, yanked his cap down over his eyes and carried a canvas bag around the course.

They called him "boy." He was 20 and shy. He had two woods and six unmatched irons. He wore knickerbockers and a tie. Francis had entered his name in the United States Open. The rich men felt it was out of character.

Day after day he played the three nines — Clyde, Squirrel and Primrose. It was the best course in America, but there were several types of grasses in the fairways, the greens were in tiers. The Country Club in Brookline, Massachusetts, had been designed primarily for tennis courts and a race track.

Some people would come out to watch the Englishmen play. It was their game. The stars would be Harry Vardon, with his new overlapping grip, and Ted Ray, the long-ball hitter.

The men on the porch recalled that they had paid Francis Ouimet 28 cents a round for carrying clubs. Now, in 1913, he had coaxed a 10-year-old schoolboy, Eddie Lowery, to carry his. Francis was becoming bold.

The British were kind to the boy. They stepped aside and saw the frightened expression in his brown eyes, the tension running up his arms. After two rounds, Harry Vardon and Wilfred Reid of England led at 147. Ted Ray and his long, wild hits were two shots back. McDonald Smith and Jim Barnes had 150.

Ouimet was tied with a chubby kid named Walter Hagen at 151. The club members applauded. Their caddy was only four strokes back of the champs. He should quit. He had made his point. Ouimet asked Eddie Lowery if he would remain home from school tomorrow. Eddie nodded.

On the third day the rain was windless and steady. Well-hit balls exploded in water. Francis fired a 74. Vardon and Ray carded 78s. The British began to address the skinny boy. He said "Yes, sir" and "No, sir."

The members of The Country Club celebrated. By God, that youngster showed the English how to putt. On the fourth day they got off the porch to watch. Balls sank in the fairways. Ray came in first with a 79 for a total of 304.

Harry Vardon, grim and irritated, three-putted too many greens. He had a 79 for a two-way tie. Barnes, Hagen, Reid all died on the back nine. Ouimet came to the 13th needing two birdies to tie.

He was 30 yards off the green in two. The skinny kid chipped. The ball fell in for a bird. He parred the long 14th, the 15th and 16th. On the sharp dogleg 17th, Francis hit his best drive and whacked a second shot 20 feet behind the pin.

The crowd choked in silence. Ouimet hit the putt solidly. It ran for the cup, hit the back, bounced up, and dropped in. He had his second birdie. On the 18th, all he required for a tie was a par. He hit a good drive. The rain was in his eyes as he hit an iron to the edge of the green.

He chipped delicately five feet short of the pin. Nobody breathed. The frightened eyes scanned ball to hole. He couldn't take his time. He hit it and sunk it. The American crowd went wild.

Eddie Lowery said he'd play hooky. Ouimet thanked him. "It's a wonderful mood," he said. "I'm numb." Vardon and Ray stopped smiling at the boy. They played their hearts out. After nine holes of the playoff, all three were dead even.

The tenth was 140 yards, par 3. Vardon tried too hard. He was short. Ray had too much club. His ball died on the back of the sleepy green. Francis dropped his ball 15 feet from the pin. He missed the putt for a deuce. The British three-putted.

Vardon and Ray seemed to be obsessed with the thought that they could lose to a Yankee caddy. On the par 4 15th, Ray hit an over-the-hill drive so hard he knocked the derby off a spectator. He drew a six. He was four shots behind Ouimet, three behind Vardon.

On the 17th, Harry Vardon looked his drive into the trees. He hit a wedge onto the fairway, reached the green in three, and two-putted for a bogey. Ouimet decided to test his nerves. He was on in two, and sunk an 18-footer for a birdie.

Ray was out of it. On the 18th, the great Vardon collapsed with a double bogey. Francis was on in two. He two-putted to beat Vardon by five strokes. An Englishman wrote: "When we are old men, children will ask us to tell them again the romantic story of the 20th of September, 1913."

Bank's future

By Thomas E. Mulvaney
New York Times writer

Washington — About this time last year, there was a lively controversy raging here between officials of the U.S. Treasury and leaders of the World Bank over the future scope of the bank's operations. The development institution's managers wanted to set in motion a chain of procedures leading to substantial enlargement of its financial resources to permit expanded lending activities down the road — providing for moderate growth and allowing for rising inflation. Those objectives, however, were stoutly resisted by the American government on grounds that the plan was excessively ambitious, premature, risky and politically impractical.

What a difference a year has made. The United States has a new party in power, and the tilt in the Carter administration is certainly leaning the other way on this and other questions of policy.

Some observers viewed the dispute a year ago as a power struggle between two strong leaders jealous of each other's prerogatives in international economic relations. On the U.S. side, there was William E. Simon, the Treasury secretary and an authority on financial markets from his Salomon Brothers background, who questioned the bank's ability to sell larger bond issues without jeopardizing its high market standing and who seemed anxious to preserve the nation's leadership in parceling out economic assistance throughout the world. On behalf of the bank's position, Robert S. McNamara, its president, stood firmly as a zealous advocate of a substantially greater amount of financial aid to the poor nations from the more affluent.

Whether or not it was a clash of ideologies or realities, the lines were clearly drawn, but Simon, as the representative of the bank's biggest backer, held most of the trump cards. And the result was a compromise that hardly pleased anyone.

Simon won his points in gaining stiffer lending terms — higher interest rates, shortened grace periods and faster amortization of loans — while McNamara succeeded in gaining endorsement for a cut-down increase in the bank's capitalization. Instead of getting the go-ahead for a special increase of $10 billion in capital, plus a commitment for a further general increase of some $20 billion later on, the bank agreed to seek only a special increase of $3.3 billion in subscribed capital at that time.

Approval has since been sought for that special increase from the member governments that would have to subscribe their share of it. There has been no announcement on how that voting is progressing, but a bank official said the other day that the tally has "reached the stage where it can reasonably be expected" that the necessary three-fourths approval by members will be in hand within two months.

Meanwhile, as international financial needs have continued to grow, the World Bank and its sister institution, the International Monetary Fund, have been looking ahead hopefully to further expansion of their international financing roles and resources. They now have a more sympathetic American administration here as they explore the avenues to be pursued.

On several occasions, including his recent television call-in program, President Carter himself voiced general support for the activities of the international financial institutions, and a number of his economic lieutenants have done likewise.

The administration has also indicated endorsement of legislation introduced in the Senate and the House to provide the necessary U.S. funds for the World Bank, the International Development Association and the International Finance Corporation. Hearings on the bill introduced by Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., will be held by a banking subcommittee this week. It will have witnesses from the Treasury and State Departments and from human-rights groups as well. One provision of the bill calls upon the U.S. government, by its "voice and vote" in the international financial institutions to channel assistance "toward countries other than those whose governments engage in a consistent pattern of gross violation of internationally recognized human rights."

In advance of those hearings, the administration last Tuesday gave concrete endorsement to one part of the package at a meeting in Vienna, when it promised to seek congressional approval for the next replenishment of funds for IDA, the World Bank affiliate that extends loans to the poorest countries on easier terms. A total of 26 countries, including two oil producers agreed to increase IDA's resources by $7.6 billion for the next three years, of which the U.S. share would be $2.4 billion. This country's share would be up by $800 million from the previous replenishment three years ago.

If Congress approves the request to raise the world Bank's subscribed capital by $8.3 billion, the U.S. portion would be $1.57 billion, or 18.8% of the total. However, only 10% of that would be paid-in capital, remitted in equal amounts over a three-year period. The remainder would be unpaid capital, callable only to meet the bank's obligations to its bond and note holders.

Nevertheless, the numbers are big. For the several programs on which congressional approval is being sought, the U.S. financial commitment at this time would be $685.9 million, plus $375 million covering the final payment under the previous replenishment of IDA funds.

Some critics object to what they see as an effort to enlarge the resources and lending capacity of the international agencies to "bail out" private banks, which for the last three years of the oil crisis have extended huge loans to the less-developed world. Advocates of enlarged resources for the agencies, however, cite the diminished ability of the private banking system to continue large long-term assistance to the developing world in view of heavy previous commitments, and they stress that the international agencies are better able to impose the economic discipline and rigorous other conditions in countries seeking loans.

At the present time, the World Bank has a ceiling of $5.8 billion in its lending activities each year under its present capital structure, including the $8.3 billion increase on which approval is being sought. However, some tentative decisions have already been taken for a modest increase in lending in the next fiscal year beginning July 1. Apparently, the bank's executive direction believe they would have support if they seek additional capital to permit the tentatively-planned rise in lending.

Training a guard dog requires skill, strength and courage, as Judy Sader holds back German shepherd Mig while Henry, wearing protective arm pad, acts as attacker.

They train dogs to beware of

By Jim Camden
Star Staff Writer

With the rising crime rate, more and more people are turning to burglar alarm systems to protect their homes.

Henry and Judy Sader produce a form of burglar alarm... the four-legged kind with sharp teeth and loud barks.

The Saders train guard dogs at their kennel south of Lincoln, and say the number of clients for their service has increased in the last year.

Not every dog will make a good guard dog, Sader said. Breeding is the main factor, and some dogs just don't have the right ancestry, he explained. The breeds that make the best guard dogs are German shepherds, Doberman Pinschers, Rottweilers and giant schnauzers.

"We can work with any breed," Sader said, but added that hounds are the least likely candidates for protection services.

Mrs. Sader, who does most of the guard dog and obedience training, said there are three steps in producing a good guard dog: The dogs are trained first to bark, then to bite, then to stop biting.

"We do not make dogs vicious," she said. The dogs are trained to be obedient — and aggressive.

Part of the training is teaching the dog to discriminate between a friend and a person who poses a threat. This keeps the dog from attacking a small child or the owner's next-door neighbor, Mrs. Sader said.

Training is a two-person operation. Mrs. Sader handles the dogs while her husband or son plays the role of the attacker.

To teach the dogs to bark, the "attacker" approaches the dog waving a burlap sack. When the dog grabs the sack, the attacker retreats and Mrs. Sader praises the animal.

"The dog always wins," Mrs. Sader said of this maneuver.

"It builds up his confidence."

When teaching the dog to bite, the attacker wears a leather arm pad reinforced with a steel bar and wrapped in burlap. The dog is taught to go for the arm, as it should for an arm that is raised to strike its master, Mrs. Sader said.

The training process takes from one to three months, during which time the dogs are boarded at the Saders' kennel. After the first few weeks, the owners come once a week to watch and work with the dogs.

"We have to school both the owner and the dogs," Mrs. Sader said. "It does no good to train the dogs without training the masters."

Some people bring their pets to be trained as guard dogs, but the dogs don't have the right temperament, Sader said. The animals may be skittish or unable to be obedience trained. Others have bad habits the trainers are unable to break. After a week or two, the trainers can tell if the dog is unsuitable.

The dogs can't be trained before they reach nine or 10 months; after the animal reaches two years the training takes longer, Sader said. The time in the middle is the most productive because the dogs are impressionable but nearly full-grown.

As with any good burglar alarm system, there is a cost involved. To train a dog, the Saders charge $150 a month, and how long the training takes depends on the dog.

To buy a fully trained dog of special German shepherd stock would cost at least $750, Sader said. And on the top end, "the sky's the limit," he said.

Even with the cost, the Saders said the kennel usually has several dogs in various stages of training.

"People feel they have to protect themselves from other people," Mrs. Sader said.

DEAR ABBY: My husband drives a cab, and many times Mike has come home with names and phone numbers of women. He empties his pockets on the bureau every night and makes no effort to hide anything. When I ask him why he has these names and numbers, he says, "Oh, I meet a lot of tramps in my job who give me their names in case I run into guys who want a gal to show them the town."

I asked him how come he knows these girls are tramps unless he gets into personal conversations with them, and he says some people start pouring out their life history even before they tell him where they want to go.

Mike is good-looking and friendly, but he must give these tramps some encouragement, or they wouldn't tell him their life's history or give him their phone numbers, right?

CABBIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Not necessarily. If Mike had something to hide he wouldn't empty his pockets out on the bureau. Don't hassle him about the "tramps" he hauls, or how he comes to know their life histories. Some cabbies hear more confessions than a parish priest.

DEAR ABBY: How does one address mail to a married couple, both of whom are physicians? I know several such couples, and I never know how to address properly their invitations or Christmas cards.

Should it be: "Dr. and Mrs. John Doe" or "Dr. and Dr. John Doe"? Or is there some other form?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: They are addressed: "The Drs. Doe," "Dr. Jane Doe and Dr. John Doe," or "The Drs. John and Jane Doe."

DEAR ABBY: I recently joined the auxiliary of a civic club to which my husband belongs, and I was named to head the annual dinner and bazaar.

When the newspaper wrote up the story, they referred to me first as "Jane Jones" and thereafter as "Jones." They also referred to my position as "chairperson."

When I complained to the editor, I was told that it is the policy of most newspapers these days not to distinguish between the sexes. Well, I objected firmly. I resent being called "Jones" when I am "Mrs. Jones." Anybody can be a "person," but a woman is someone special and always has been.

MRS. JOHN JONES

DEAR MRS.: I, too, dislike the policy of some newspapers in dropping the woman's first name, or "Miss" or "Mrs." on subsequent mention. But the newspapers are in a crunch between those with our preference and other women who demand that no distinction between the sexes be made — a move (in their eyes) toward true "equality." So don't shoot the editor — he's doing the best he can.

Insurance for collegians criticized

New York — Consumers Union has just trained its heavy guns on companies selling life insurance to college students. In CU's opinion, insurance for most students is an unnecessary expenditure, and those few who need it would do better with a regular policy rather than one designed for collegians. Needless to say, the companies in the business think this a cheap shot.

The issue is important because so many students, or their parents, do buy this type of coverage — either as straight-life insurance, which provides for cash values in the policy and is quite expensive, or as low-cost term insurance without cash values.

Fidelity Union of Dallas, Tex., claims that one out of every 20 graduating seniors buys one of its straight-life policies. Globe Life and Accident of Oklahoma City sells 50,000 to 55,000 campus term policies a year. Even the National Student Assn. is in the insurance business, promoting a policy written by American Health and Life of Baltimore, Md.

The fundamental question is whether students should be insured at all. In general, the companies argue that insurance, like spinach, is good for nearly everyone; Consumers Union thinks it should be bought principally by those with specific financial obligations to dependents, which lets most students out. Here is the substance of the debate, with the industry position first, followed by the critics' position.

(1) Parents have a big financial investment in their children. It makes

It's Your Money

By Jane Bryant Quinn

sense for the child to carry insurance naming the parent as beneficiary, so that if he dies the parent will be reimbursed.

If you think of life insurance as a lottery, this is as good a reason as any for buying a policy. God forbid that your child should die, but if he does, you might as well have an insurance payoff as not. The price of $10,000 in campus term coverage ranges from $20 to $40 a year.

But do you really feel that your child owes you the cost of his education (not to mention his room and board for 20 years)? If so, why not carry a policy on his life when he's 30 and 40, as well as when he's 20? The fact that parents don't insure older offspring indicates that most of them don't really expect to get their investment out in dollars and cents. But they are vulnerable to that sales pitch during the years they're actually scrimping to pay tuition.

The cold reality is that a child's death, rather than being a financial loss, is a financial gain, since the parents are saved future costs. So insurance protection isn't needed.

But there are some situations where it does make sense to cover the cost of past tuition expenses if the child dies. For example, if the student (or parent) took a loan for college and the parent would have to repay it if the student couldn't. Or, if the student were obligated to pay the parent so that a younger brother or sister could go to college, or so that the parent could retire a loan of his own. However, if the obligation to repay is likely to extend past age 25 or 26, a regular term policy would be better, because at that age campus policies generally have to be converted to expensive straight-life.

(2) If a student buys a term policy that is convertible into straight-life, and if he gets a rider that entitles him to buy more insurance in the future at standard rates, and if he becomes uninsurable by contracting a dread disease, or enters a risky occupation like stunt piloting that would make it hard for him to get insurance, then the policy he was prescient enough to buy in college may be the only coverage he can get. That's a lot of "ifs." Whether you want to spend your money on this kind of long shot is a personal choice.

(3) Insurance agents argue that if you buy a straight-life policy now, you'll save money, because the premium is lower when you're younger. However, since you pay the premiums longer, and in the meantime lose the earning power of that money, the true cost of coverage is about the same no matter when you buy. The cost of straight-life is much higher than term, running from $150 to $300 for a person in his early twenties, depending on the company and the options chosen.

(4) It is an article of faith with insurers that a straight-life policy is the cornerstone of family security and should be bought as soon as possible, perhaps even before you have any dependents to protect. Its purpose is to help you save money. (But there are other forced-savings vehicles available; also, people in all but the highest tax brackets will get a higher after-tax return on savings left in a credit union or bank term account.)

The principal objection to straight-life for young families is that the cost is high for a relatively small amount of protection. A young man with a dependent wife and baby may need coverage worth $75,000 or more, to be sure that if he dies they will have the income they need for many years. A premium of $180 may buy a 22-year-old man $16,500 worth of straight-life in Fidelity Union's College/Master policy, but about $60,000 worth of five-year renewable term.

Assuming that money is short, a young person should load up on term coverage, so as not to leave his family underprotected at his death. Once he's met this first and fundamental obligation, he can start saving for the future, in a straight-life policy or wherever else he wants.

Opening lead — three of clubs.

Whenever declarer plays a suit contract he is faced with the question of whether or when to start leading trumps. It is impossible to formulate a perfect rule to cover this recurring problem. Hands simply vary too much from one deal to the next for anyone to invent a cure-all to govern this situation.

In general, a declarer draws trumps unless there is a good reason not to. How and when he decides this question is mostly a matter of using good judgment.

Consider this deal where South gets a club lead and must decide whether to tackle trumps right away. Let's suppose he wins the club with the king and plays the king of hearts. East wins and returns a club to Dummy's ace.

Declarer returns to his hand with a diamond and plays the Q-J of hearts, hoping for a 3-3 break. When West shows out South must go down one, losing a diamond, a club and two hearts.

The fault with this method of play is that declarer, in effect, stakes the contract on a 3-3 trump division. Instead, he should shape his play so as to make the contract even if the hearts are divided 4-2.

He should win the club lead with the king, play a spade to the ace and ruff a spade. He then leads the king of hearts. East takes the ace and returns a club. Declarer wins in dummy and ruffs another spade.

After declarer now plays the Q-J of hearts, revealing the 4-2 trump division, he continues by cashing the K-A of diamonds and ruffing dummy's last spade to produce the tenth trick. In this way, South scores five trump tricks, despite the 4-2 division, and five tricks on the side in aces and kings.

Acapulco — Splendid weather now. Bathing suit days. Short sleeve nights. In rainless West Coast country, we've been rationed to one-minute showers once a day.

Here we can turn on the tap and stand under it all day if we want.

People from the frozen Midwest and East peel down to shorts — the first time they've felt sun on their bodies in months.

"We've heard several stories about Russian cruise ships."

I was on the "Odessa" a year ago. One week cruise down as far as Belize (British Honduras). Cost $50 a day. Nearly all other Caribbean cruise ships are running close to $100.

Food was just fair. Service was willing but not experienced. Ports were OK. I'd say if other cruise ships are charging $100 a day, this was $50 worth.

A few weeks ago I went to a party aboard the Mikhail Lermontov in San Francisco.

This ship is carrying 600 passengers to Australia via Acapulco, Tahiti and Rarotonga. Arrived in San Francisco with a load of Australians.

All headed ashore "to get myself a big bloody steak."

All complained that the food was mostly vegetables. "And fried at that."

"Never be able to look at fried cabbage again in me life, mate." Ship was clean. Rooms rather small and some had a pull-down third bed. If anybody stands up, the other two have to get into bed.

Bar prices lower than most cruise ships: Vodka 60 cents. Scotch, 40 cents.

Press party was served caviar on Ritz (!) crackers. Russian must have something going for Ritz crackers. They did the same thing on the Odessa.

Russian cruise ships do not serve caviar every night by any means. Only at press and travel agent parties.

Australians said they never saw caviar "except in tins in the ship's shop." Also complained the ship was constantly running out of beer.

An Australian is fueled with beer. Take away his beer and he's immobilized.

I'd say the Russian ships are not luxury cruises but you get a comfortable ride for the lowest prices going.

Added advantage. You don't tip on Russian ships. Average tip on most cruise ships is $3 a day. That means $6 a couple. A shakedown I think is outrageous when you're paying $200 a day for the ride.

I asked the Russian steward if the room I saw was first-class or second-class.

"No class on Soviet sheep," he said sharply. (Interesting way of putting it.)

Don't try to outrun flames

By Joanne Farris

DEAR JOANNE FARRIS: Recently you wrote an interesting, informative column about fire prevention and smoke detectors for homes.

We had experience that points up the need for information about another aspect of fire in the home. Our daughter was visiting friends in the country. When she got up in the morning, she went to stoke the wood stove. She was wearing her long, flannel nightgown.

Somewhat, as she turned away from the stove, the hem of her gown caught fire. As she saw the flames, she began to scream and run, expecting, I suppose, to escape from the flames by outrunning them. Fortunately, her hostess came in, told her to sit down, and roll over on the floor to smother the flames.

Our daughter suffered second degree burns on her bottom and upper thighs, but we all realize how fortunate she was.

The lessons we learned, that I offer to your readers are these: 1. Don't wear loose garments near a fire. 2. If clothing catches fire, lie down and wrap yourself in a rug, blanket, or other covering which will smother the flames, or roll over and over on the floor or ground until you smother the flames with your body. Any burns you receive in this way will be less severe than those caused by running and fanning the flames.

Neither native intelligence nor education is proof against the fear and panic which flames engender. The only antidote is the good knowledge of what to do in the event of an emergency. Signed: Mrs. S.W., Eugene, Ore.

ANSWER: How true it is that we know what to do in an emergency situation. Having information about what not to do plays only a minor role in assuring that we will do the right thing. Fortunately your daughter's friend knew what to do.

Last week I attended a demonstration of cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR), conducted by a nearby fire rescue squad. In cases of loss of consciousness from fainting, asphyxiation, electric shock, drowning, or heart attack, knowing what not to do is not enough. It is vitally important to know what to do while we wait for the rescue professionals, and if we will all learn how to administer cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, thousands of lives can be saved every year.

One of the rescue squad men told us of a recent case in his own home. His wife and friend were having coffee in the kitchen. The children were playing around the pool, except for the friend's 15-month old toddler, who was in the house with the women. Somehow, someone left the back door open. In the matter of a minute or two, one of the women missed the little boy. Wayne's wife rushed to the pool and saw the infant lying on the bottom. While she brought him out of the water the friend ran, crying, to the telephone to summon the ambulance. Wayne's wife started cardio-pulmonary resuscitations, and by the time the rescue squad arrived, the little boy had begun to breathe.

RHEEMGLAS IMPERIAL GAS

CONSTRUCTION FEATURES

Extra thick Fiberglass insulation: more than triple for heat retention and fuel savings

New flue baffle design: Special baffle restrictor discs provide greater retention of flue gases. Keeps heat in flue longer for maximum heat dispersion to tank water.

Low input pilot — energy saving design, provides 350-400 BTUH, 1/2 the output of conventional models; positioned for easy ignition, yet well protected to maintain pilot/burner alignment

Rheemglas Tank Rheem® water heater tanks are made of special materials with exacting care. The tank surface is coated with an exclusive porcelain formula called Rheemglas and fused to the solid steel shell at 1600°. The result is a smooth, tough glasslike lining that effectively resists the corrosive attacks of hot water chemicals, thereby assuring long water heater life. Tank is designed and tested to withstand 300 PSI hydrostatic test pressure for working pressure of 150 PSI A N S I Z21.10-1 1975 Standard

Cast Iron Burner: time proven reliability and performance

Anode Rod — to counter aggressive water reaction, 4 different types factory installed and designed to match the many varied water chemical conditions.

Dip Tube is new plastic formula, tougher, more heat resistant than ever before. Made to Rheem specifications

Efficient, time-tested draft diverter.

Relief Valve Opening (3/4" NPT) side connect is exposed for faster, economical installation.

E.C.O. (Energy-Cut-Off) — Furnished as standard equipment on all models. In the event of a control malfunction in the water heater, the E.C.O. activates a separate valve which shuts off all gas supply to the main burner and pilot.

ANNOUNCING RHEEMGLAS® IMPERIAL GAS

Energy Miser

Built and backed by one of the industry's leading innovators in water heater design and research, the new Rheemglas Imperial Energy Miser combines energy saving design and operation with rugged, dependable performance... to give you a water heater that can almost pay for itself through lower inputs, reduced heat loss and greater fuel efficiency than previous models

HERE'S HOW:

The chart below shows energy saved per year based on an average household use of 500 gallons of hot water per week. (Temperature rise, standby loss and recovery efficiency are factors used in computations.)

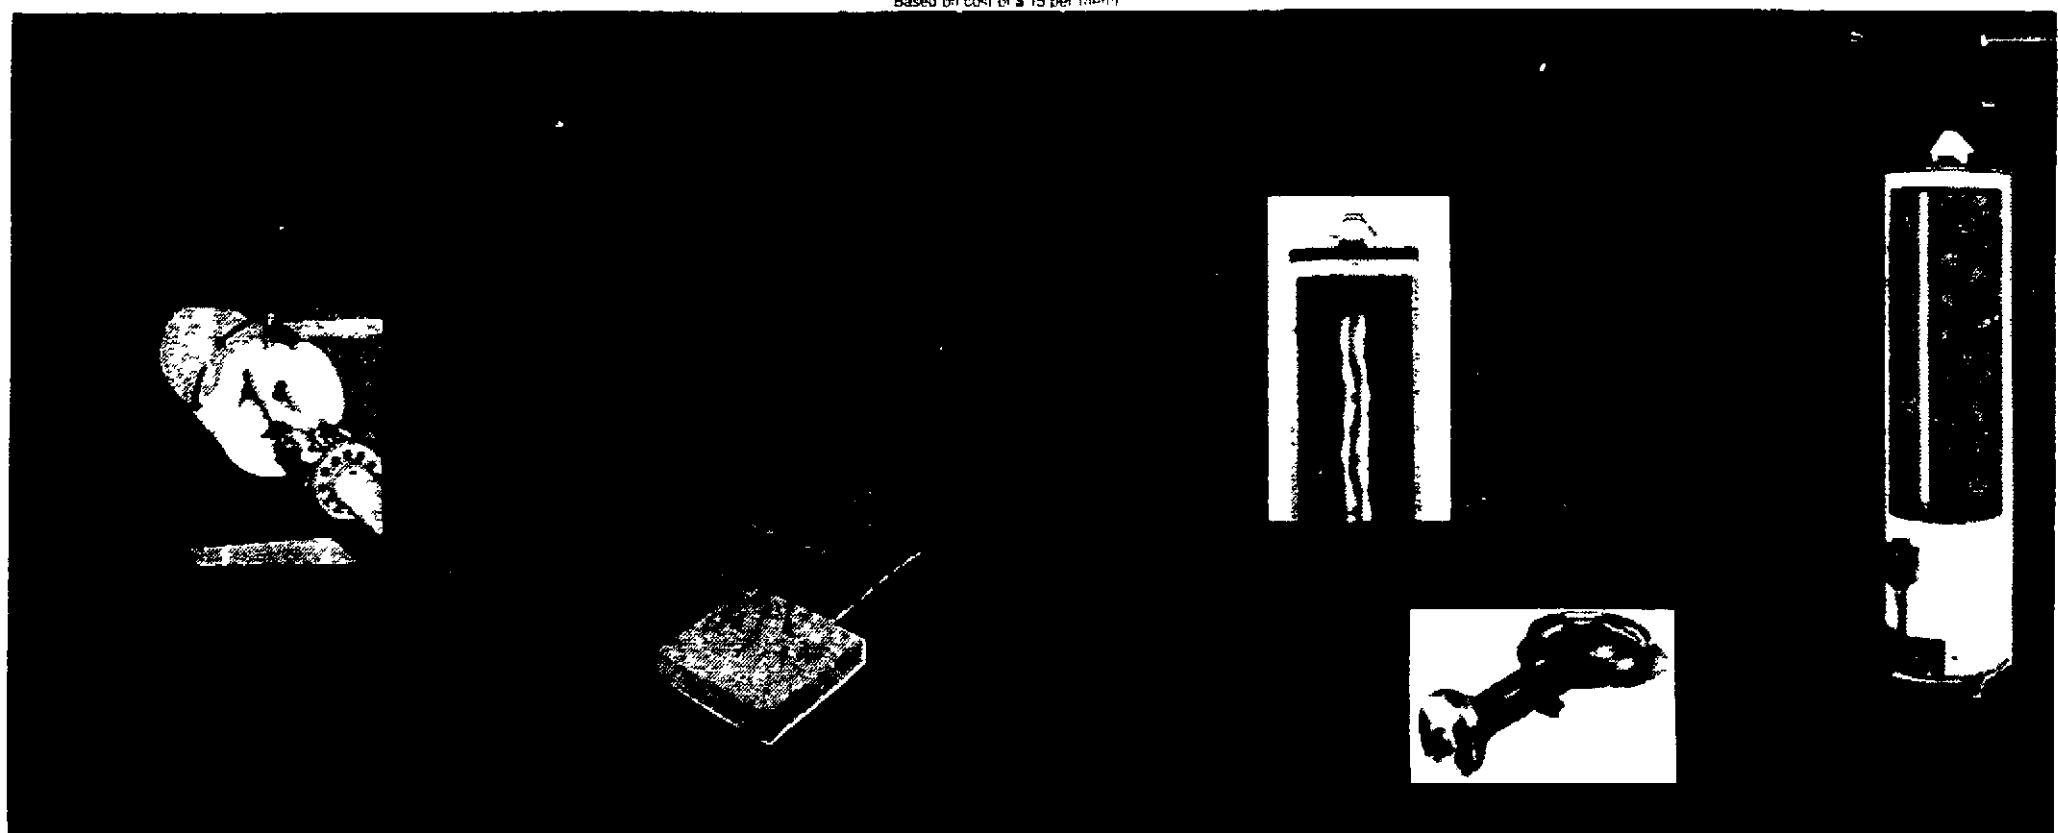

MODEL SIZE	THERMS* SAVED PER YEAR	COSTS SAVED OVER 10 YR. PERIOD
30 gallon	93	$139.50
40 gallon	81	$121.50
50 gallon	86	$129.00

To determine cost savings over a period of time multiply these figures by fuel costs in your area to consumers ($/therm) and number of years

Example: How much would be saved in 10 years using a new gas Energy Miser 50 gallon water heater with gas costs at $0.15/therm? (86 therms/year) x ($0.15) x 10 years = $129.00

Test data available upon written request

*One therm is 100,000 Btu. Your gas bill is determined by the number of therms used.
**Based on cost of $15 per therm

Instead of pounds, youth lost life

Omaha (AP) — School officials and doctors Monday were trying to determine how and why an Omaha Bryan High School junior died after apparently trying to lose weight by lying under a foam tumbling mat.

Robert A. Lafayette, 16, died about 4 p.m. Saturday, about 24 hours after being brought unconscious to a hospital.

"As far as we knew he was a good, strong healthy lad," Principal John McQuinn said. "The question we all have is, why couldn't he have put up a struggle of some kind?"

McQuinn said the mat the youth was under is about two inches thick and five feet wide. He was found with his arms folded under him and his head resting on his arms. There was no sign of a struggle.

The youth's father said Monday he hoped school officials will make whatever changes will be necessary to prevent similar accidents from happening.

McQuinn said about 2:55 p.m. student Dale Lind found LaFayette under a tumbling mat on a balcony which is used by physical education classes. Lind tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but when LaFayette did not respond, Lind went for help.

Faculty members were able to help restore some circulation, but by the time the Papillion Rescue Squad arrived they still had not been able to get LaFayette to breathe. He did not regain consciousness.

LaFayette's father, retired Air Force CM. Sgt. Raymond LaFayette, said he does not blame school officials.

"I am bitter, but I'm not a vindictive man," he said. "I don't want to punish anybody."

Young LaFayette was about 5-10 and weighed between 160 and 170 pounds. His father said the youth was trying to lose a pound to get under a weight limit.

He said the youth apparently lay in the middle of the mat with one side over him and the other side pulled on top of that. It was not tightly rolled, his father said.

His father said an autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death. He said he knew of no illness or other medical problem his son had.

McQuinn said the school does not have a weight-lifting team. The class LaFayette was enrolled in is on conditioning, including weight lifting. Students are divided by weight in the class, but there is no interschool competition, McQuinn said.

He said students are not required to lose weight, nor is it recommended that students try to lose pounds by lying under foam mats.

McQuinn said he talked to some wrestlers at the school who said students have used the mat technique to lose weight. He said there is an absolute prohibition of the practice now.

Kuska given ag honor

Melvin O. Kuska of rural Fairmont, vice president of the National Livestock Feeders Association, has been chosen as the 1977 University of Nebraska-Lincoln Block and Bridle Club honoree.

The award is given annually in recognition of outstanding contributions to the livestock industry by the club, an organization of about 130 livestock students. As honoree, Kuska will be inducted into the UNL Animal Science Hall of Fame, and will be honored at the club's annual banquet scheduled for April 29 at 6:30 p.m., in the Nebraska East Union.

Kuska, 57, was selected from a "strong" field of eight candidates, according to Bob Engle, 22, student chairman of the honoree selection committee.

A native of Exeter, Kuska was graduated from the University of Nebraska with a B.S. degree in agricultural engineering and attended Yale University for five months before serving as a captain in the Air Force during World War II.

He currently manages a farming-livestock feeding operation while serving in a host of livestock organizations, including serving as chairman and a director of the Beef Industry Council of the National Livestock and Meat Board, board member of the Nebraska Beef Industry Foundation and board member of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association.

Hypnosis said able to ease job stress

Omaha (AP) — About 33 Omaha executives are able to cope better with job stress because of hypnosis, a hypnotherapist says.

Harold Gray, a professor at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, said the object of his work is not to teach clients how to avoid stress situations, but how to live with them.

Gray is vice president of SHUR Inc., an Omaha clinic of doctors, dentists and psychologists who use hypnotherapy in their practices.

"Stress is unavoidable. There are bound to be frustrations in business when dealing with the boss, clients or employees or when fighting deadlines," Gray said.

"The problems come when you can't cope with those situations, when you have no defense mechanisms against stress. Then people tend to seek relief by smoking, drinking or compulsive eating."

So far, all of Gray's clients have been men. Although women are as susceptible to stress as men, he said, relatively few have moved into management positions where stress is the biggest problem.

Extension district's lay advisors elected

Ralph Anderson of Genoa is the newly elected chairman of the District V Director's Lay advisory Committee (LAC), according to Dr. Loyd L. Young, District V extension director at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Elmer Zeis of Valley was chosen vice chairman.

New members of the committee are Mrs. Bill Jurgens of Pickrell, Mrs. Paul Kummer of Columbus; Mrs. Dick Niemeyer of Fairbury; Mrs. Nina Jean Rohls of Unadilla; Joe Roh Jr. of Tekamah; Elmer Harder of Omaha; Anderson, Mrs. Roger Wehrlein of Plattsmouth and Laurie Wittstruck of Lincoln.

According to Young, the group heard a presentation on the expanded nutrition program by Charlotte Kern, Douglas County extension agent, and Sara Mitchell, nutrition aide. They pointed out that nutrition aides have been visiting low-income families for seven years and currently consult with more than 400 families. There are 40 aides in Lincoln and Omaha in the program, and "the success has been phenomenal," Young said.

Columbus man designated hero

Hastings (AP) — Glenn Hovie of Columbus has been named the latest recipient of the Nebraska Hero's Award for his rescue of Jill Paprocki, 1, from a smoke-filled Columbus home Dec. 17.

The award was presented by the Nebraska Funeral Directors Assn.

No adults were present when fire broke out in the basement of the Paprocki home. Four-year-old Gregory Paprocki ran to the Hovie home for help. Hovie heard the baby crying inside the smoking building and crawled through the house until he found the child and carried her to safety.

Proposed liquor license for Beatrice auditorium rejected

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — A proposal to obtain a liquor license for the city auditorium, a matter previously generating sparks, was turned down by the city council Monday night without one word of debate.

Also rejected several years ago, the issue was revived recently when a radio station owner, Bud Pentz, asked the council to reconsider. His contention that serving liquor would boost the city as a convention site has produced considerable public discussion the past several weeks.

Monday's decision followed a brief report by Chairman Allen Grell that the special projects committee recommended against a license. His only additional comment was that the council might later want to consider liquor on a limited basis for certain functions.

On another matter, the same committee got council agreement against contributing a requested $2,500 to help promote a city Fourth of July celebration. The council decided instead to inform the sponsors that a maximum of $500 would be given and then only "at the end of the contributions list" if still needed.

An inquiry by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission prompted a reaffirmation vote regarding intentions to proceed with developing a Hannibal Park. City administrator Terry Doyle explained that the parks commission would be apprehensive of a petition being circulated calling for an election on the park.

Doyle said the resolution was necessary to obtain a $62,000 state reimbursement of funds already spent on the park. The only vote against the resolution was from Doug Probst, who is helping spear-head the petition drive.

The council was also asked to reconsider a decision of two years ago against diagonal parking on three sides of the county courthouse. Ray Elwood, representing the county board, was told that a change in state law would require the matter to come before a board of adjustments rather than the council.

As proposed, the change would increase the number of parking spaces from 31 to 56.

The council also:

—referred to Board of Public Works four bids on power cable for substation No. 4
—accepted $13,425 bid of Ford Motor Co., Grandview, Mo., for tractor backhoe as recommended by Board of Public Works

—equalized assessment on paving districts 282 and 283

—briefly discussed a need for community cleanup this spring

—passed ordinance authorizing sale of property on 9th St. between Dorsey and Carlyle to Wilbur Oldfather. Property owners who previously were opposed apparently are now agreeable —suspended rules and passed ordinance creating paving district 290 in vicinity of elderly housing project. Part of the area was petitioned out by residents.

—suspended rules and passed series of ordinances approving final plat of Jamestown Square subdivision, correcting discrepancies from previous action

Also approved plans for street grading bids to be opened April 4

—accepted resignation of Michael R. Walke as city auditorium custodian —approved community development block grant application relating to improvement of blighted housing as presented in previous hearings —convened in executive session to discuss possible litigation on property acquisition

Hair-raising adventure still lives on

Omaha (AP) — Willie Thompson can rest in peace knowing that his scalp is still in the Omaha Public Library, after surviving the move into the new W. Dale Clark building the past month.

Thompson, a gandy dancer for the Union Pacific Railroad, lost his hair Aug. 6, 1867 when Indians derailed the handcar he was riding near what is now Lexington, Neb.

All the railroad men but Thompson were killed.

There are varying accounts of how he got his scalp back. Some historians say the Indians dropped it while others say Willie crawled into the Indian camp and carried it off himself.

Thompson, it is said, tried to grow the hair back. He had a physician sew it on. But the scalp didn't take, and Willie mailed it back to the physician who gave it to the library.

Now preserved under a small glass dome, the hairpiece has been a curiosity of sorts.

"There were never a lot of people standing in line to see it," said librarian Pat Bleick. "It was a biggie with the kids."

In the old main library it was kept in the children's department, where when the kids were told what it was, it got a lot of ohs and ahs.

The scalp has been moved to the history-genealogy department of the new building and is listed in the card catalog as "SCALP — Willie Thompson."

Hickman building halt considered

A 1½-year halt on building in and around the village of Hickman will be proposed Tuesday night at the village board of trustees meeting.

David Hunter, board chairman, said Monday he would propose the halt because of questions about the water supply for fire safety and sanitation.

Hunter said he has received conflicting reports from Farmers Home Administration, a federal agency which has made loans for buildings in the Wagon Train Heights subdivision near Hickman.

The FmHA county office reported that the development's fire protection is inadequate due to present water storage and water pressure capabilities, Hunter said. The state FmHA office later seemingly reversed this opinion by agreeing to make loan commitments for 18 houses planned for the area, he added.

Hunter said he has asked the central FmHA office in Washington, D.C., to clarify the situation.

A 1973 report by the federal Housing and Urban Development Department also cited possible problems with sanitation facilities for the village of 550 persons if Wagon Train Heights was developed too quickly, Hunter noted.

Plans for the development call for 180 housing units; 140 are completed. The development is within the village's one-mile radius for utility hook-up.

A water tower slated for completion in fall 1977 will solve fire safety problems, Hunter said, and a waste treatment system to be completed in fall 1978 will handle sanitation concerns.

Hunter said he wants building halted in Hickman and in Wagon Train Heights until those projects are completed.

Phares seeks Republican nomination for governor

By Don Walton
Star Staff Writer

Promising a listening campaign, former North Platte Mayor Robert Phares Monday formally announced his candidacy for the 1978 Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Phares, 38, thus joined Nebraska Wesleyan University President Vance Rogers as the early birds in what is likely to be a spirited Republican run for the prize which has eluded the GOP six of the past seven times.

Only once in the past 20 years has a Republican been elected governor. That was Norbert Tiemann eleven years ago.

Phares made his long-expected announcement at a series of news conferences, choosing the Capitol Rotunda for his Lincoln appearance.

Although he was short on specifics Monday, the North Platte insurance agency president promised that Republicans will "know my positions" by the time they vote a year from this May.

"From what people have shared with me thus far, and with a thought or two of my own, we are shaping a list of concerns," Phares said.

"It is clear that Nebraskans are concerned about water, public education, state roads and buildings, taxes, state regulation and the efficiency of state government and that there is a concern for agriculture beyond its obvious interest in roads and water.

Robert Phares
... in governor's race

"I promise to listen to these concerns. I will ask people what government's response should be.

"During the campaign I will ask citizens of our state to help me develop sound approaches to achieve our mutual goals."

Phares said he sees a need for "a strengthened and expanded Republican party" in Nebraska, and he hopes to help "give people, particularly younger people, an opportunity to play a significant role in the future of our party."

As governor, he said, he would not seek to "replace human initiative with government programs."

After all, he suggested, "the books are full of government's failures and people's successes."

As mayor of North Platte Phares said, he worked with people to meet such government concerns as recreation, adequate sewage treatment and disposal, streets, police and fire protection and management of growth.

Phares was elected at age 28, and served from 1966 until last December. He did not seek a third term.

His campaign for the governorship will offer "a mix of seasoned veterans and a lot of fresh new faces," he said.

"I believe a campaign must be a listening and learning experience," he stressed.

"Too often candidates simply travel about stating their views with time-worn phrases and forget to listen to those they seek to represent and serve."

His decision to take his announcement to 23 communities throughout the state this week "underlines our commitment" to a listening campaign, he said.

Phares was introduced in the Rotunda by Sen. Ron Cope of Kearney and accompanied by his wife and three children.

To avoid any possible conflict of interest, the candidate said, he has resigned from the board of directors of both the North Platte State Bank and the Great Plains Medical Center.

SCC-Lincoln may earn accreditation

The Lincoln campus of Southeast Community College (SCC) has been recommended for full accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

A team headed by Charles Barnes, president of Dodge City, (Kan.) Community College spent more than two days last week in Lincoln checking facilities, curriculum and other factors.

The group will recommend that the Lincoln campus be given full accreditation for a five-year period when the association meets this summer, said SCC Campus Director David Buettner.

Official verification of the visitation team's recommendation will be sent to SCC in about six weeks, said SCC Area President Robert Eicher.

Buettner said accreditation will enable Lincoln campus students to transfer credits more easily to other institutions and is an indication of the SCC's quality and management level.

Accrediting team members said they were impressed with staff and maintenance at the six leased SCC facilities but not with "the way we were spread out," said Buettner.

This is the first accreditation effort in SCC's history. The Fairbury and Milford campuses are also working toward full North Central accreditation, he said.

Omaha will have own 'bionic boy'

Omaha (AP) — When 7-year-old Kenny Dove returns to Omaha, he'll have an electronic elbow, and possibly an electronic hand.

Kenny, born with a form of palsy that resulted in the amputation of his right arm above the elbow, has been outfitted with the new elbow at the Ontario Crippled Children's Hospital in Toronto, according to Joe Malec, president of the Variety Club of Nebraska.

Because of a muscle weakness in his shoulder, Kenny has been unable to use a conventional artificial arm. The Variety Club sponsored his trip to the Canadian center to see if he could be fitted with the sophisticated electronic limb.

Malec said the youngster is learning how to use the arm, and is being tested to see if he can use a conventional artificial "hand" or will need an electronic one.

Kenny was accompanied to Toronto by his mother. No date has been set for their return, according to David Rohe, director of physical therapy at the Meyer Children's Rehabilitation Institute in Omaha, which helped arrange the boy's trip to Canada.

Veys contemplates Omaha mayors race

Omaha (AP) — Al Veys, a four-term city councilman and South Omaha grocer, is considering a write-in campaign for mayor, he said Monday.

Veys said he is "weighing the decision very heavily" and will decide this week after checking with supporters.

Although it would be possible to run in either the primary or the general election, Veys said his choice would be the April 5 primary, only two weeks away.

He said he thinks the announcement by one candidate that he would spend a lot of money, possibly as much as a candidate for the 2nd Congressional District seat, frightened away many potential candidates for mayor.

Veys did not mention the candidate by name, but he referred to Douglas County Commissioner (Michael) Albert. Spending in last year's congressional race was about $120,000.

Valentine breaks record of monthly snowfall total

Valentine (AP) — Valentine apparently believes records are made to be broken.

The snowfall so far this month totals 42.1 inches, which exceeds not only the record for March but also for any month. The National Weather Service said the record for March was 24.8 inches set in 1891. The heaviest for any month was 33.7 inches in November of 1919.

So far this winter, Valentine has recorded 67 inches. However, this falls short of the record snowfall of 90.3 inches set in 1919-1920.

The moisture from the snow and rain so far this month is 3.15 inches which surpasses the previous record of 2.87 inches in 1933.

Lenience given Lincoln builder

A Lincoln builder, found guilty two months ago of cheating the state of nearly $3,000 in an unemployment compensation scheme, was granted permission Monday to serve his city jail sentence on a work release program.

Lancaster County District Judge William C. Hastings ordered that Dave Burhoop, 30, may leave the jail between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. on weekdays during his 20-day sentence, to look after his business of several interrelated construction firms in Lincoln.

FDA regional meeting to feature milk laws

Hastings (AP) — A regional Food and Drug Administration conference on milk will be held March 29-31 in Hastings.

Robert Wilson, milk and food service specialist for Region Seven of the FDA in Kansas City, said laws and regulations which govern milk will be discussed at the meeting.

One of the major issues to be considered, he said, is the proposed pasteurized milk ordinance revision, necessary because of new methods being used in the production of milk and its by-products.

Wilson said that with the exception of Nebraska, state governments will be able to adopt the ordinance as a state regulation.

Inmate's escape investigation ended

County Atty. Ron Lahners said Monday he would not ask for another investigation of the Christmas Eve escape of Steven Van Ackeren from the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Van Ackeren, who escaped twice from the penitentiary during a four-month period last year, has told prison authorities and The Star that law enforcement agencies arranged his escapes.

Van Ackeren's two brothers and sister were charged with helping with his second escape during a visit on Dec. 24. Those charges, however, were dropped last Wednesday when a witness refused to testify against the trio at the preliminary hearing.

Lahners said he still believed the state patrol's assessment of escape, even though the witness wouldn't testify.

"I'm satisfied that's how he escaped," Lahners said. "Getting to a point where it can be proved in court is a different thing."

Lahners said that the inmate's refusal to testify was "not unusual in this kind of situation."

Van Ackeren has claimed that a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent engineered his first escape in September. The second escape was arranged by a state patrol investigator, he said.

Twenty Years of Stewardship

THE TRUTH ABOUT CANCER INSURANCE

You don't build a 150 million dollar a year health insurance business from scratch in just 20 years by ripping off policyholders. Such success comes only from offering a superior product with superior service that fills a real need at a price within the reach of the average family.

Our Company issues and has in force more insurance policies limited to loss from cancer than all other insurance companies in the world combined.

We issued our first cancer policy in December 1957—and today have well over two million cancer policies in force covering over seven million Americans. We have another three million insureds in Japan and Great Britain.

Eighty-five percent of our cancer policies are sold to employee groups and members of associations. We are approved for payroll deductions by more than 50,000 separate corporations and government agencies including 640 hospitals, hundreds of State Government agencies (including colleges and universities), and thousands of city and county governments and local school systems. Our policyholders include Medical Doctors, Lawyers, Scientists, Bankers, Stock Brokers, State and Federal Judges, Governors, Engineers, Congressmen, United States Senators, Prime Ministers, the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker.

Our enrolled groups range in size from 10 insureds to over 10,000 insureds. Our policyholders are not isolated from each other but are associates. (Word of a delinquency on our part would spread like wild fire among our policyholders.)

Our sales associates sell our cancer policy on its merits as is evidenced by the fact that we have one of the highest renewal rates in the supplemental insurance industry. You may scare a person into buying, but you don't scare him into renewing next month or next year. But let's face it, the American people are scared of cancer, and rightly so. A special Gallup poll released to Parade Magazine recently showed that 58% of Americans fear being struck by cancer more than any other disease (blindness 21%, heart disease 10%, all others 2% or less). Fear motivates the purchase and renewal of all insurance whether the risk be fire, flood, automobile accident or cancer.

Our 7,700 sales associates enroll new policyholders on the recommendation of existing policyholders and especially on the recommendation of our claimants and their families. Our business grows in a given area almost in direct proportion to the number of claims paid in that area—and as a result, our business has doubled every two years since 1958.

In 1976 we paid 61,549 cancer claims and most were paid within three days of receipt of the completed proof of loss. Our claims paid run from less than $50 on some skin cancers to $54,091.70 on one exceptionally long illness. There is no average cancer and no average cancer claim, but in 1976 we paid out on the current cancer policy being offered in most states a sum equal to 43.5% of the total charges for hospital, medical, surgical treatment of our claimants (our maximum family monthly payroll deduction premium rate is $4.80 per month).

We decline payment on less than 1/2 of 1% of the claims submitted where the diagnosis of cancer is positive (and then only for valid reasons).

Our cancer insurance policies are issued and pay their full benefits direct to the insured in addition to sums paid to the insured by all other health insurers. In most cases, our check fills the gap between the sums expended by the insured and his family and the sums recovered from other insurance.

Few general health insurance plans (even with major medical benefits added) cover the full family loss when cancer strikes.

One might ask why cancer insurance? Why not take the same money and apply it to more insurance covering all maladies? The answer to that is simple. The care and treatment of cancer is generally the most expensive of all maladies. Our cancer insurance premium if applied to additional general health insurance would buy so few additional daily hospital dollars as to be economically inconsequential. Applied to cancer insurance such premium buys an economically meaningful coverage.

We feel, however, that above all else our cancer policy provides to the insured Peace of Mind. Peace of mind that enough money will be available to fill the gaps—to insure that he will never be a burden upon loved ones—that life savings or plans for college educations and a fair start in life for the coming generation—will not be destroyed by a long and expensive battle with cancer.

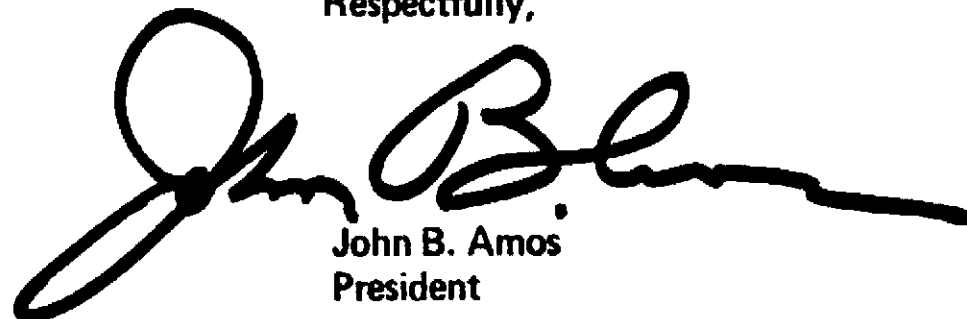

We are a stockholder founded, financed and profit oriented business. We perform a real and needed public service and under the American System can expect a reasonable return. Our return (after taxes) as a percentage of sales was 12.5% in 1976. This compares with a return of 7% for Columbia Broadcasting System, 14.6% for IBM, 10.9% for Dow Chemical, 17.3% for Schering-Plough (St. Joseph Aspirin), 16.5% for Syntex Pharmaceuticals, and 9.4% for the Coca Cola Company. (Source: The Value Line Investment Survey)

Specializing in cancer insurance we are growing at a faster rate than any other insurance company in America—because we offer a superior product with superior service that fills a real need at a price within the reach of the average American family.

We do not solicit policyholders through advertisements in the mass media or through mass direct mail campaigns. This advertisement in accord with that policy should not be construed as a solicitation for the sale of insurance to anyone, but is simply a solemn statement of our company history, results and policy.

Should you desire further information on our Company and our stewardship to our policyholders, you should write to the Insurance Commissioner of your home state or call your Better Business Bureau.

Respectfully,

John B. Amos
President

The State Board of Health Monday adopted regulations governing public water supply systems in Nebraska. In 1974, federal legislation was passed setting standards for water safety. In 1976, the Nebraska Legislature passed the Safe Drinking Water Act calling for the development of a program to test water supply systems and regulate water safety standards in the state.

"We have completed the program development and have begun its implementation," said Clifford Summers, director of the health department's Division of Environmental Engineering.

According to Summers, the division has conducted five public hearings on the regulations and has done preliminary water testing to identify problem areas.

The regulations set the maximum limits for chemical, radiological and biological water contaminants. And, although Summers said he doesn't foresee many severe problems with water in Nebraska, "45 cities do have nitrate problems," he said.

Those having high nitrate levels in their drinking water may have to drill new wells or try blending their existing water supply with water having low nitrate levels, he said.

"We also are a little concerned with the presence of organic chemicals," possibly resulting from field run-offs after herbicide and pesticide treatments, Summers added.

Compliance with the regulations are required of water systems having more than 15 service connections or serving more than 25 people.

The regulations provide guidelines and timetables for water testing. All water samples taken will be analyzed by the State Health Department Laboratory or by independent laboratories approved and contracted by the health department.

To facilitate the testing and regulating procedures, Summers hopes to set up regional offices. Currently, two persons are working out of the Kearney area and Summer said he plans to have others based in Omaha, Norfolk, Falls City and Scottsbluff.

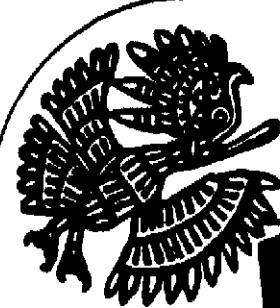

The safe water rules also require that all systems have operating permits by Jan. 1, 1978, and that persons operating or supervising public water supply systems possess certificates of competency. Those qualifying for the certificates and operating permits will be determined by the State Health Department, which will also issue the documents.

Summers added that the regulations will be submitted for approval to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) within the next month.

"In four or five years, we should have the program stabilized," he said. In addition, at the end of five years, the state should be able to take control of the program and operate independent of the EPA.

Also at the meeting, the board approved the appointment of Gordon R. Jensen of Holdrege to the Nursing Home Administration Board of Examiners. Jensen is the administrator of Christian Homes Inc. of Holdrege.

Hartman accepts OSU cage job

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Jack Hartman announced Monday night he has resigned as head basketball coach at Kansas State University to take over the basketball program at his alma mater, Oklahoma State.

Ending almost a week of speculation, Hartman made the announcement at an impromptu news conference following a meeting with his K-State players.

He replaces Guy Strong at Oklahoma State, who resigned at the end of this season.

Hartman said the official announcement will be made Tuesday in Stillwater, Okla.

"There's only one job in the country I would consider," Hartman said, "and that's Oklahoma State. And that's because it's my school."

Hartman also said assistant coach Jerry Holmes would join him at OSU and added that Holmes' acceptance to go along "was very instrumental in my decision to take the job."

He also said assistant coach Mark Reiner had been invited to go, but declined.

Reiner immediately went on record as a candidate to replace Hartman.

"I'm going to apply for the job as hard as I can," he said. "We're losing a hell of a man."

Floyd Gass, Oklahoma State athletic director, said Hartman received a five-year contract for $35,000 a year.

"Without a doubt, I think we've hired the best man for the job," Gass said in Stillwater.

Jersey Jermier, Kansas State athletic director, was openly disappointed at Hartman's decision.

"We tried to do everything practical and possible to keep him," Jermier said. "I feel that we were financially competitive, but Jack is an alumnus of Oklahoma State and understandably interested in their program."

Hartman compiled a 135-62 record in seven seasons at Kansas State. He leaves Manhattan on the heels of perhaps his finest season here.

As the season opened, most observers expected little of the Wildcats because of their lack of size and maturity. The tallest starter was only 6-foot-5 and inexperienced youngsters dotted the roster at key positions.

Back-to-back losses to Missouri and Oklahoma seemed to fortify the assessment. But then Hartman began reeling off one victory after another.

Gathering experience and confidence, Kansas State surprised the rest of the league by winning its last 10 games to clinch the conference and the post-season tournament titles.

A taller, favored Providence squad fell in the first round of the Midwestern Regionals in Norman, Okla. Then Marquette squeezed out a one-point victory after a tip-in bucket by the Wildcats was disallowed.

Hartman came to K-State in 1970 and in the ensuing seven seasons produced three conference championships and appeared in post-season competition five years.

Fonner jockey: Riding not easy job

By Mark Gordon
Staff Sports Writer

Grand Island — Take it from Wayne Anderson — riding race horses isn't as easy as it looks.

"Riding might look easy, but it's a sport and you have to keep fit," explained the 28-year-old jockey here at Fonner Park. "I've seen many riders come back after their first race after a layoff, throw up and can't even stand up."

"I've seen some riders go all the way up to 150 (pounds) after the season. The most I've been up to is 130," he said.

Anderson, whose normal riding weight is about 110, said he only gained seven pounds during the off-season this winter. He worked on his newly-purchased farm near Cairo and spent a few days keeping fit at Cairo Central High School's gymnasium.

"It was fairly easy for me to keep in shape this winter," he said. "Other years, I'd start working out three days a week in January (Fonner usually starts in late February) at the Grand Island YMCA playing basketball and racquetball."

"That way, I'm losing weight and getting my legs fit. If you lay off two months, it usually takes about 30 days to get back into shape for riding," he said.

Except for a two-year hitch in the U.S. Army, Anderson has ridden on the Nebraska racing circuit since 1966. He's one of the state's more consistent riders, finishing in the top 10 on the outstate circuit with regularity.

Still, he admits it's a little harder each year to keep fit. "You know each year you have to watch your weight a little closer," he said. "I feel the little aches and pains more than I used to."

"I used to think nothing of bumps and bruises. Now it seems they take longer to heal. You notice everything more when you get older," he said.

He has never ridden the entire 12 months. He enjoys taking time off, seeing his children, Lori, 7, and Chad, 4, and his wife, Sally.

Besides working out in the

fitness is important

off-season, most riders gallop horses two or three weeks prior to the opening of a race meet.

"You never really sit down on a horse. You're riding with your arms and legs. Riders usually gallop about 10 horses each morning and you're standing up with pressure on your legs," he explained. "I really noticed the strain on my legs when I first started riding again."

"I was dead fit this year and I was still a little sore at the beginning," Anderson said. "I ran cross country all through high school and that's always helped me."

Through the first three weekends, Anderson was the track's fourth-leading rider with seven victories, seven seconds and four thirds in 45 mounts.

Game story precedes game—by 10 hours

Charlotte, N.C. (AP) — When underdog North Carolina-Charlotte upset No. 1 Michigan in the NCAA Midwest basketball regional Saturday, one sports writer already had written the story — nearly 10 hours before the game.

Glenn Rollins, a sports writer for The Charlotte Observer, said he was visited by "clairvoyance" for the first time in his life at 4:30 a.m. Saturday as he was sleeping in Lexington, Ky. "My eyes popped open and it hit me. UNCC was going to knock off No. 1," Rollins said in a first-person account of his vision in Monday's Observer. "I jumped out of bed, pounding fist in hand, sweating. And then the muse struck. I had to write."

Rollins said he pounded out 1½ pages on the game yet to be played. Eleven hours later, he sent the story in, changing only two things.

He had predicted the score to be 75-70, it turned out 75-68. And he put an accurate attendance figure in.

The story was in Sunday's paper with the lead Rollins said he wrote before dawn: "Rivers ran upstream. Sphinxes keeled over. Pyramids turned to dust. Hell froze over, the great 49er in the sky struck gold and his UNCC basketball team rose up and slew a giant."

Orr talks, woos McGee

Ann Arbor, Mich. (UPI) — Coach John Orr, already hard at work on getting next season's team together, made a brief stop in his recruiting schedule Monday to accept Michigan's trophy as No. 1 rated team in UPI's final college basketball ratings.

"We got this from UPI for being voted No. 1 on the basis of what we accomplished during the regular season," Orr told a partisan audience of Michigan boosters at the group's annual basketball awards banquet. "It's a super trophy and we appreciate it very much."

Orr, who has spent almost as much time in Omaha, Neb., recruiting as he has at home during the past two weeks, declined to dwell on his Wolverines' loss last Saturday to North Carolina-Charlotte other than to say, "We let you down."

"I just got back from Omaha a half hour ago," Orr said after accepting the trophy. He gave a speech and also spent some time wooing 6-foot-6 Mike McGee. It was at least his second trip to Nebraska in the past two weeks.

Michigan is also hot after homestate star Earvin Johnson but the recruiting has slowed on the 6-foot-8 star since his team is in the state tournament championship game.

"Earvin is the key and we're looking forward to a successful recruiting year," Assistant Coach Bill Frieder said.

Michigan loses three starters next year—All-America guard Rickey Green, four-year starting guard Steve Grote and forward John Robinson. It was the presence of those veterans last season that limited the Wolverines to just one recruit — guard Mark Lozier.

Sophomore center Phil Hubbard of Canton, Ohio, and junior guard Dave Baxter of Detroit were voted co-captains for next season by their teammates.

Hubbard was also voted the most valuable player on the Wolverines' team and the most improved player. He shaded Green for team scoring honors, 19.6-19.5.

Hubbard led the team with an average of 13 rebounds per game, shot 55.6 per cent and wound up with a 67 per cent free throw average after starting out at 60 per cent.

Huskers split with Baylor

Waco, Tex. — Sophomore pitcher Jeff Costello fired a three-hitter to pace Nebraska's baseball team to a 1-0 victory over Baylor University here Monday in the second game of a doubleheader to earn the Huskers a split.

Baylor triumphed in the first game, 2-0, as the Huskers opened their 31st year under head coach Tony Sharpe.

Costello limited the Bears to three scattered singles in throwing the complete seven innings. He walked just one batter and struck out four.

The former Omaha Benson standout received all the support he needed in the first inning.

Freshman centerfielder Joe Scherger walked, advanced to second on a single by first baseman Larry Winum and moved to third on a fielder's choice by designated hitter Steve McManaman. He scored on an error by shortstop Steve Macko.

In the opening game, freshman pitcher Sammy Bickham had a no-hitter going through two outs in the seventh inning. But junior third baseman Doug Miller drilled a single to spoil the bid.

NU senior pitcher Kirk Eymann, from Papillion, pitched well allowing Baylor just two runs and six hits through six innings. He walked one and struck out four.

The Bears combined two singles in both the third and fourth innings for their only runs in the well-pitched contest.

The Huskers played without senior centerfielder Paul Haas, a 1976 All-Big Eight honorable mention performer. An NU spokesman said he has a pulled hamstring muscle, yet may see action on this road trip later this week.

The Huskers and Baylor conclude the four-game series with a 1 p.m. doubleheader here Tuesday.

hold the all-time bests in two events each. Frost speaks in proud tones when talking of Hruby, the all-time discus leader.

Frost specialized in the 1966 Olympics and won the gold medal in the 1967 Pan Am Games.

"We got us a good one there," Frost says of Hruby. "She's got all the physical attributes, she's rangy, tall, strong and dedicated."

"There's a lot of potential," she adds. "And she's already proved herself on her own level."

The one thing that worries Frost is counting her chickens, so to speak. "No matter what caliber of athlete you get, anything can happen that senior year," she says. "There can be injuries or something like that."

"Or someone can come out of the blue like Donna Fox did last year and pass everyone else up," Frost says. "We're keeping a couple positions open if that should happen."

Frost is excited to see what the prep season brings. "So are the prep coaches and athletes."

All-time track leaders, Page 14

Frost knows banner year when she sees it

By Chuck Sinclair
Prep Sports Writer

If you don't think University of Nebraska women's track coach Carol Frost pulled off a recruiting coup with the signing of four prep track stars last week, take a look at the state's all-time prep performance charts.

The four — Hastings St. Cecilia's Nancy Kindig, North Platte's Cindy Tatum, Donna Fox of Bassett and Lincoln High's Robin Hruby — collectively hold down the all-time bests in seven of 10 individual events.

Frost hopes all four continue their success through this season.

In an ordinary year, the first-year University coach probably wouldn't have jumped to sign so many athletes before their final prep season had begun.

But Frost knew this was no ordinary year.

She knew it when Kindig beat the Russians in the pentathlon two years ago and then qualified for a European tour this past summer, along with her multitude of prep accomplishments.

She knew it when Hruby's discus mark of 144-4 last year at the state meet in North Platte ranked her No. 1 in the nation in her event.

She knew it when Fox doubled in the 800 and mile at the state meet, and her mile time of 5:15.1 beat the University's existing record.

She knew it when Tatum placed a home town crowd with the fastest sprints in Nebraska prep history.

"This is definitely an exceptional year for girls track in the state of Nebraska," Frost says. "With the girls we've got, and some we hope to get, we think we can score well both in the Big Eight and nationally with mostly Nebraska kids."

Kindig's achievements speak for themselves, according to Frost.

"Nancy has proven herself as a national and international competitor with her win over the Russians," Frost says. "In fact, her individual 100 meter hurdle time of :14.1 last summer placed her at 12th in the nation among juniors and seniors."

"The one thing that made Donna (Fox) stand out in my mind was watching her in the state meet at North Platte," Frost adds. "I'd never seen her before, but I'd followed her progress on the charts. I saw her run both her mile and the half, and when she ran that 5:15.1, she was so far ahead of the field she kept looking back over her shoulder. If she'd have been pressed, I know she would have been down close to five minutes."

"Our record at that time was 5:22," Frost says. "Even in the first year of the mile, she completely outclassed the field."

"I'm hoping Cindy (Tatum) can come in and win the indoor 60 and 100 next year for us," Frost says. "She's very strong. The best sprinter the state has ever had."

NU grid ticket orders come in

By Virgil Parker
Sports Editor

Do you want season tickets to the Nebraska football games in an expanded Memorial Stadium? If so, you're not alone. The Nebraska ticket office processed applications for 1,000 such requests Monday and only got half the mail opened.

The Board of Regents ordered a "test of the market" at their meeting last Saturday. If the requests total 8,000 by an April 16 deadline, an addition of that size will presumably be built along the east sidelines.

Prospective season ticket buyers are requested to send a check for $55.50 per ticket plus $5.00 per order to the athletic department ticket office.

"A lot of the checks we've received are for the wrong amount," athletic ticket manager Helen Ruth Wager noted Monday. "Many have sent the extra fifty cents for each ticket, not each order. But, we'll straighten out the refunds later."

The correct amount should be $50 for one ticket, $111.50 for two, $167 for three and $222.50 for four.

"There are a lot of 'ifs' to be answered later," Mrs. Wager admits. "We are really just seeing if there is a demand for 8,000 more season tickets. We're marking the requests on the date they are received. What will happen if more than 8,000 requests are received and who will sit where in the stadium are questions which will have to be resolved later. Since the expansion, if built, won't become a reality until the fall of 1978, there is plenty of time to answer those questions."

Mrs. Wager said that checks received are being cashed and placed in a special account. If a stadium expansion is rejected for any reason, refunds will be made following the decision date later this spring.

Ticket requests and a check for the proper amount should be sent to:

Namath to Rams if accord reached

Los Angeles (AP) — Joe Namath, the New York Jets quarterback, appears headed for the Los Angeles Rams if financial arrangements can be worked out.

Rams' General Manager Don Klosterman commented Monday. "Yes, we have been talking to the Jets and also to Joe Namath's attorney, Jimmy Walsh, about the possibility of Namath becoming a Ram next year."

"Those talks were amicable and both parties had questions which would have to be resolved if a trade were to be made for Namath."

There have been talks in the past of Namath joining the Rams, some of them instigated by Namath, himself. But last week, for the first time, Klosterman indicated his club had major interest in the 34-year-old veteran. "The movies we watched showed that he took a physical beating last year but came through it," Klosterman said. Namath's knees have undergone several operations and remain questionable for another season of pro football.

The aging quarterback's salary of $450,000 in 1976 might be drastically reduced to perhaps $300,000 or less.

In 1976, the Rams used three quarterbacks while winning the Western Division title of the National Football Conference. Rookie Pat Haden ended up the starter after both James Harris and Ron Jaworski had their turns.

The rights to Jaworski, who was playing out his option, have been traded to Philadelphia. Harris has indicated he also would like to be traded.

Kings' invincibility fades

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — There was a time in March when the Kansas City Kings felt invincible.

The Kings won their first seven games of the month to assume a comfortable 3 1/2 game lead over Seattle in the race for the final playoff berth in the Western Division.

But Kansas City has lost its last two games, Chicago has moved into the playoff picture and Seattle is in the middle of its best road trip in years with six victories in its last eight games. The Kings are now clinging to a slim 1 1/2 game lead over the SuperSonics and Bulls.

But the Kings still talk invincibility.

"We've been dealing with pressure all season," Kings' coach Phil Johnson said Monday. "If we can maintain our composure and play up to our capabilities, we can make the playoffs."

The Kings host the Golden State Warriors Tuesday night to begin a string of five games in six nights — a week that will probably make or break the club's playoff chances. The Warriors and Detroit Pistons in competition for the fourth and fifth playoff berths in the West.

"We're trying to catch both Detroit and Golden State," Johnson said. "The hottest teams in the league (Seattle and Chicago) are behind us."

Fonner figures go up

Grand Island — Fonner Park's mutual handle and attendance continue to show increases over last year's record pace after 10 days of the spring horse meet.

The total mutual handle of $4,044,686 is 7.9 per cent higher than last year. The daily average mutual handle of $449,409 is $32,855 better than last year's average of $416,554. The total attendance of 49,705 is slightly higher than last year's 49,411 — 0.6 per cent up.

"Despite everything, at this time last year we were only up 5.9 per cent in mutual handle over 1975. Now we're 7.9 per cent and that's encouraging," noted Fonner assistant general manager Hugh Miner.

Fonner begins five-day-a-week racing Tuesday. Post time will be 3 p.m. on weekdays and 2 p.m. on Saturdays through the remainder of the Fonner meet.

Killion, Bergman on 3rd team

Kearney, Neb. (UPI) — Loren Killion of Kearney State and Paul Bergman of Hastings were selected to the third team of the NAIA all-America teams, it was announced Sunday.

Killion, a 6-foot-7 forward, scored 2,100 points during his career at Kearney State, started in every game during his four years on the Antelope squad and averaged 22.4 points a game this year.

The selection of Killion and Bergman, a center, on the NAIA's third team was made by the NAIA Basketball coaches All-America Committee.

Fingers: No gratitude to A's Finley

Phoenix, Ariz. (UPI) — Rolie Fingers says Charlie Finley never did him a favor, no matter what the Oakland A's owner claims, and as such he doesn't feel he owes him a thing.

"He may have done some favors to some of the players, as he claims," says Fingers, "but I never was one of his boys. I don't owe him anything."

Finley said the other day he invested money for many of his former players, got two of them out of paternity suits and even helped one player's father with a loan that kept him in business.

"I didn't mind them leaving me the way they did," Finley said of the players who played out their contracts with him and left to join other clubs. "If I was a player I probably would have done the same. What I do mind is them bad-mouthing me. Every time I pick up a newspaper I read how one of them is saying bad things about me. I treated many of them better than a lot of other owners."

Fingers says Finley was such a bad man that it was only a matter of time that he suffered a setback, like the one in his suit against commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Arjay stops Joys squad

Omaha — Lincoln Arjay Advertising stopped the Lincoln Joys #2, 41-31, here Monday night in a losers bracket consolation game at the Midwestern AAU 15 and under girls basketball tournament at Holy Name High School.

The victory advanced Arjay into the consolation finals Tuesday night against Omaha Holy Cross. The loss ended the Joys #2 season at 12-8.

Kay Adams paced the winners with 13 points. Melanie Wright scored 16 for the Joys #2.

White Sox attitude may fade with time

Sarasota, Fla. (UPI) — There is a new attitude of optimism and determination among the Chicago White Sox this year which could very likely fade into resignation by mid-June.

Most White Sox players agree that new manager Bob Lemon got the team off in the right direction by stressing fundamentals and defense in the opening weeks of spring training. It is generally conceded that Paul Richards, at 67, just didn't have his heart in managing last season and by September the White Sox players also gave up, as evidenced by their 15 losses in the final 16 games.

"Let's face it," said Ken Brett, who after coming over from the New York Yankees in mid-May became the White Sox' best pitcher in '76, "this was a horrible ball club last year. We didn't stress any fundamentals in spring training and pretty much went through the motions. Most players will tell you it was the easiest camp they ever had."

Slugging outfielder Richie Zisk, who was acquired over the winter from the Pittsburgh Pirates, a perennial contender in the National League, agreed with Brett that this year's edition of the White Sox can only get better.

"You have a lot of kids on this team and guys who haven't had such big league experience," said Zisk. "But they can play. Guys like Brian Downing, who was hurt a lot last year, Alan Bannister, Kevin Bell and Chet Lemon. All they need is more experience and they'll have us winning."

True, there's a lot of merit to that old saying about there being no substitute for experience, but the cold hard facts are that the White Sox finished dead last in the American League in pitching with a 4.25 team earned run average and did nothing to improve their lot in that department over the winter.

And although Zisk, who hit 21 homers and drove in 89 runs for Pittsburgh last year, will aid the offense, he'll do nothing for the woefully weak outfield defense. Further, the infield defense is almost as uncertain.

STRENGTHS: Zisk, first baseman Jim Spencer and outfielder Jorge Orta are all proven hitters with adequate power. Bucky Dent is among the best shortstops in baseball.

WEAKNESSES: A woeful pitching staff made up of castoffs, has-beens and unproven rookies; uncertain infield, especially if Dent is traded; weak defensive outfield.

OUTLOOK: The White Sox should consider themselves lucky to beat out expansionist Seattle for sixth in the AL West in a year which will undoubtedly be highlighted by a lot more Bill Veek gimmicks.

Soda pop tax fizzles on legislative floor

By Lynn Zarnoching
Star Staff Writer

The controversial soda pop tax designed to pay for park improvements lost some of its luster on the floor of the Legislature Monday afternoon.

Proponents of the pop tax failed to muster the needed 25 votes to advance LB109 to final reading. The vote was 21 to 17.

As some state senators guzzled colas and orange sodas, other predicted producers would hike the price of a can of pop by a nickel if the bill passed.

LB109 would levy a tax on carbonated soft drinks at the rate of one-third cent for each four ounces. That amounts to one cent for each 12-ounce can or bottle.

Revenue received from the statewide tax would generate an estimated $3.79 million a year, money which, supporters say, is needed to help pay for badly needed improvements in park and wildlife habitat.

The tax on carbonated beverages, the brainchild of former Sen. Eugene Mahoney who now heads the Game and Parks Commission, appears to be headed for a showdown with the governor. Gov. J. James Exon has indicated he would veto the bill if it is approved by the Legislature.

Sen. Walter George of Blair succeeded in convincing his colleagues to earmark $306,000 in pop tax receipts to build a Heritage House historical center in Lincoln near the State Capitol Building.

Utica Sen. Douglas Bereuter sponsored the only other successful amendment to give the Appropriations Committee and the Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee the power to review the Game and Parks Commission's long-range building plans.

That review "would make it clear the Legislature remains in the driver's seat as far as capital construction is concerned," Bereuter said.

A number of other amendments were defeated.

Sen. Jack Mills of Big Springs suggested that the tax should be increased to three cents a bottle on the grounds that retail prices will be increased by a nickel anyway. Mills suggested the amount of time the law would be in effect be lowered, thereby generating the same amount of revenue as LB109.

Sen. Neil Simon of Omaha said a three-cent tax on a can of pop would "tax pop out of existence." More people would drink tea and lemonade instead, the Omaha senator said.

However, Mills said the lawmakers were being naive if they believed pop producers wouldn't pass the tax on to consumers and raise the vending machine price by five cents.

When the price of sugar went up, Mills related, so did the price of a can of pop. But, he said, when the price of sugar went down, the price of pop remained the same.

The Legislature also defeated Lincoln Sen. Shirley Marsh's attempt to route revenue from the tax to the state's general fund instead of earmarking it directly for use by the Game and Parks Commission.

After her amendment failed, Simon tried to push through a compromise bill to earmark only half the revenue for the state treasury and the other half for the commission. Simon's amendment also failed.

The senators also killed a proposal requiring the Legislature to approve Game and Parks Commission building plans before any money could be spent and scratched a proposal to lower the pop tax from one-third cent for every four ounces to one-fourth cent.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Barry Reutzel of Fremont, said he would work on the measure and bring the pop tax back for debate once again.

Senators reject stiffer pot laws

United Press International

An amendment which would have significantly stiffened the penalty for possession of one pound or more of marijuana fell one vote short of adoption after long debate in the Legislature Monday.

Sen. Patrick Venditte of Omaha proposed the revision of the state criminal code to provide for a maximum of five years in the penitentiary, a $10,000 fine, or both, for such possession.

His motion to adopt required 25 votes but went down on a 24-12 ballot.

Rejected on a 9-16 vote was another Venditte amendment to boost the maximum penalties for possessing less than one pound of marijuana to a six-month jail term, a $1,000 fine, or both.

The current maximum punishment for possessing less than a pound of the weed is a seven-day jail sentence, a $500 fine, or both. Possession of more than a pound can be punished by up to a year in the penitentiary, a $500 fine, or both, or imprisonment in the county jail for up to six months, the fine, or both.

While arguing for his amendments, Venditte insisted, "Pot is becoming a way of life in the United States and one reason is the laws legislatures are passing."

A former teacher, Venditte said he has seen the drug start young people down the road to ruin.

Opponents of the harsher penalties said they would not be applied uniformly and the lack of enforcement would make the laws a "mockery."

"There seems to be a move to decriminalize marijuana," Venditte said, adding, "I think any amount (of it) is bad."

Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said he could not approve a penalty under which a person experimenting with one marijuana cigarette could spend up to six months in jail. Current laws "seem to be working pretty well," he said.

Until there is conclusive evidence of the drug's harmfulness, he added, the state should use the citation method in dealing with those who use small amounts of it.

Barnett also noted that before the lawmakers soon will be a bill to provide separate penalties for users of small amounts, people with between one ounce and one pound, and people possessing more than one pound.

Bellwood Sen. Loran Schmit said he does not support decriminalization and the citation approach and does not believe marijuana is harmless. But he said the Venditte amendments were too severe and would probably be imposed mostly on the poor and illiterate.

Workmen's compensation increase to $140 passes

Associated Press

Legislation increasing maximum weekly workmen's compensation benefits to $140 won 28-15 final passage in the Legislature Monday.

The bill, introduced by Grand Island Sen. Ralph Kelly, was sent from the Business and Labor Committee with a maximum weekly benefit rate of $150, but legislators on the floor returned the figure to Kelly's original $140.

Also passed Monday was LB275A, an accompanying funding measure, which won 30-14 clearance.

Passage of LB275 was expected even though it boosted the weekly maximum for an injured worker from the current $100.

Also passed Monday were bills that would:

- change the fee for a termination statement on a debt from 50 cents to $1. Introduced by Scottsbluff Sen. William Nichol, LB368 passed 38-2.
- allow cities an option on whether to use cash or accrual method of accounting. Columbus Sen. Donald Dworak's LB152 passed 40-0.
- remove physician residency requirement for Board of Health membership. Anselmo Sen. Howard Lamb's LB190 passed 38-0.
- change the timing for starting terms of office for officials in city manager-governed communities. Hemingford Sen. Sam Cullen's LB203 passed 40-0.

—allow facsimile signatures on financial documents and instruments in political subdivisions. The Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee's LB265 passed 39-1.

—outlines three-member sheriff's office merit commission composition in counties smaller than Douglas County that have such commissions. Springfield Sen. Orval Keyes LB304 passed 42-1.

—change composition and size of Lincoln-Lancaster County board of health, going from seven to nine members. Lincoln Sen. JoAnn Maxey's LB307 passed 44-0.

—provide a common expiration date for non-resident state insurance licenses for uniformity purposes. The Banking panel's LB334 passed 36-5.

—allow one-year grace period during which resident insurance agent may apply for permanent license without taking an examination. The Banking panel's LB335 passed 39-3.

—clarify state Insurance Department's authority to issue non-resident brokers' licenses and deal with other states on a reciprocal basis.

The Banking panel's LB336 passed 36-8.

—change census reporting as it relates to school aid apportionment in certain school districts. The Education Committee's LB487 passed 45-0.

School district change bill for Sioux advanced

The Legislature's Education Committee Monday advanced a bill that will allow the Santee Sioux reservation to use a new building for both elementary and high school instruction.

Coleridge Sen. Elroy Hefner's LB430 was advanced on a vote of 6-0.

It would allow Indian reservation school districts financed primarily by the federal government to change district classification by a vote of the people regardless of the number of students in the district.

That would allow about 30 Santee high school students to attend classes in the federally-financed grade school building.

The Santee school district taxpayers, Indian and non-Indian, have been paying tuition for the students to attend Niobrara High School.

A letter recently received by Committee Chairman Frank Lewis indicates the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs will finance the additional cost at the Santee school, about $144,000, subject to congressional approval.

Tooth Fairy Society wants Carter

Toronto (AP) — President Jimmy Carter has been invited to join the Tooth Fairy Society.

A Canadian dentist who extended the invitation said he decided to write the President because Carter's famous toothy grin is a good advertisement for dental health.

"His smile personifies the value of good dental health," said Dr. Sam Green, creator of a local dental health program.

'Committee too hasty with loan bill'

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said the Legislature's Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee should have discussed the financial condition of small loan companies with all parties involved before taking action on a small loan interest rate bill.

The bill, LB118, which increased interest rates, was sent to the full legislature over DeCamp's objections.

The committee had reports both that small loan companies lost money in 1975, and that the companies more than doubled their profits in 1975 to 76.

The committee, DeCamp said, should first have met with representatives of the Department of Administrative Services, the Department of Banking and Finance, small loan industry representatives and the Legal Aid Society of Lincoln to resolve discrepancies in profit and loss figures involving the companies.

"They voted without waiting for such a discussion, and that's why I wouldn't vote on the motion," DeCamp said. The Neligh senator is chairman of the committee.

Mandatory change to coal urged

Washington (AP) — The Carter administration Monday urged Congress to require electric power plants and other industries to use coal wherever possible even though it said the program could cost electric consumers billions of dollars.

Federal Energy Administrator John F. O'Leary told a Senate hearing such a proposal will be "one of the major elements in the President's energy program on April 20."

He testified in general support of mandatory coal conversion legislation, which he indicated contained key elements of what President Carter will recommend.

O'Leary said intensive negotiations already have begun between the FEA and the Environmental Protection Agency to lay the groundwork for such a program. He said launching a massive coal conversion program will "require a very great technological effort" to make sure clean air standards administered by the EPA are not violated.

O'Leary said requiring power plants to be converted to coal will cost the industry "tens of billions of dollars," a tab that will eventually be paid by consumers in the form of higher electric bills.

He said the cost would be the greatest in the Southwest and other gas-producing areas of the country, where more power plants burn natural gas to produce electrical power.

"It is not a trivial program," O'Leary told a Senate energy and natural resources subcommittee.

Council flipflops on hospital

By Gordon Winters
Star Staff Writer
In a sometimes fiery meeting Monday, the City Council flipflopped on its proposed changes in the governance of Lincoln General Hospital.

The move came over the stubborn opposition of Sue Bailey and Bob Jearmby. After completion of the flipflop, Jearmby let fly a blast at the other council members.

Jearmby said he was unhappy that "fundamental policies seem to be made at some place and some time not open and apparent to the rest of us."

Instantly Max Denney, who led the move, and Bob Sikyta shouted in protest, slapping their hands down on the council podium.

"That's not correct and you know it's not correct," Denney fumed.

"It's not true. There has been no meeting anywhere by anybody," he said. Jearmby immediately backed off. "All right. I'll extend to you right now my apology," he said.

In abandoning the overhaul agreed to informally two weeks ago, the council made two substantive changes in the hospital governance.

One change is that appointments to the hospital board will now be made after three names are selected by a committee of the hospital board and turned over to the mayor, who will select one of the three to submit to the council for confirmation or rejection.

The other change is that from now on it will be required that at least two members of the 11-member board be licensed physicians.

Another change that is not substantive, but would be a drastic departure from present practice, if followed, is that the council put into law a notice that it may require nominees to the board to appear before the council for questioning.

The move away from the overhaul agreed to earlier was led by Denney, who said his proposal was a compromise between opposing points of view.

"Often the best legislation is arrived at by compromise," Denney said.

Jettisoned in the "compromise" were proposals that council members no longer serve on the board, that the board be reduced from 11 to 9, and that the hospital board of trustees have different members from the Lincoln General Hospital Association.

The association and the board of trustees now are made up of the same members. The idea of separating the two boards had stirred the vociferous opposition of the present board members, who said it would lead to higher costs and potential conflict between the two boards.

The disappearance of the agreement reached two weeks ago was due to changes of heart by Denney and Steve Cook. Both said simply that they had changed their minds.

Mayor Helen Boosalis council arbitrary.

Mayor for keeping lid on taverns

Mayor Helen Boosalis Monday vetoed the City Council's decision to lift the limit on the number of liquor licenses for restaurants which serve beer.

Unless some of the five council members who approved the change switch their votes, however, it appears the veto will be overridden next Monday.

In making the veto, Mrs. Boosalis said she thinks the council decision to keep a limit on the other liquor licenses, but drop the limit on Class A (beer on-sale only) was arbitrary.

In addition, she said, the council resolution fails to state guidelines or restrictions for the issuance of other types of liquor licenses, although it does set forth guidelines for the issuance of Class A licenses.

Only six file required reports

Only six of the City Council candidates filed the initial campaign spending reports required under state law to be turned in Monday.

The nine candidates who failed to meet the deadline have an avenue to escape the possible fine of $500 and jail sentence of 60 days provided in the law, however.

Before they can be charged they must be given a written notice that the report is required. Then five days is allowed for the candidates to redeem themselves.

Things were stricter under a city law, but that was declared invalid two weeks ago by Municipal Judge Donald Grant.

The candidates who followed the law are Leo Scherer, Dorothy Walker, Paul J. Beezley, Tom Schrader, William Smith and Sue Bailey.

The reports show that Scherer has amassed the largest campaign war chest of the six, but that Ms. Walker spent the most in the first reporting period.

For the primary campaign another report is due five days before the election, on March 31. The last report on financing for the primary election is due April 25.

Contributions listed by Scherer total $2,465. The next biggest fund raiser is Ms. Walker with a total of $1,647, followed by Mrs. Bailey with $1,215, Smith, who started with $200 from his own wallet, Schrader and Beezley, who each said they received no contributions.

Ms. Walker's spending during the first reporting period totaled $1,185. She was followed by Scherer, who reported spending of $787, Beezley, with $360 in expenses apparently paid from his own pocket, since he reported no contributions, Mrs. Bailey, with $303, Smith with $180 and Schrader with none.

The six reports show that the candidates who had outside contributors are all continuing to comply with the provisions of the city law, despite its being struck down, by revealing the identity of contributors of more than $25.

Under state law only the identities of contributors of more than $100 must be revealed.

The names of the nine candidates who failed to meet the legal deadline are John Robinson, Frances Tapia, Mrs. Sherri Purdy, F. "Shiloh" Moles, Sanders McCandless, John V. King, Mrs. Anne Murphy, Joe Hampton and T.R. Allan.

Eden Park citizens protest proposed zoning change

The City Council Monday heard complaints against a proposed zone change to allow business uses at 39th and Normal Blvd.

Members of the Eden Park Neighborhood Association argued that the zone change would degrade nearby residential areas.

"Let's not turn Normal Blvd. into another Cornhusker Highway," urged Mrs. Joyce Holmgren, 4240 Normal.

In other business Monday, the City Council took the following actions:

- Approved application of Gryphon Corp., doing business as the Lincoln Underground, for Class C liquor license at 277 N. 9th and application of Frank A. Hardin as manager.
- Delayed action on rules and regulation passed by Housing Board.
- Approved agreement to establish joint use of Lincoln Police Department helicopter with Lancaster County sheriff's office.
- Approved acceptance of and expressed appreciation for gift of Alice Virginia Abel to Parks and Recreation Department.
- Approved application by Knights of Columbus to amend special permit at 60th and South to correct dimensions.

- Approved construction of paving districts 2385 and 2386 and ornamental lighting district 212.
- Approved extension of completion date to Nov. 1 in Imperial Heights, Regency Estates Add. and Regency Estates 1st Add., and to Oct. 1 in Oak Park Subd. and Woodhaven Add.
- Approved preliminary plat of Seafood, Inc., north of Calvert, east of 10th.
- Approved preliminary plat of Piazza Add., east of S. 56th and Linden.
- Approved preliminary plat of Reeve

Add., north of LaSalle between 56th and 58th.

- Approved Street Project Selection Procedure, repealing Street Action Plan.
- Created ornamental lighting district 219.
- Amended sidewalk requirements in Skyline Highlands Add.
- Delayed action on final plat of McArthur's First Add., generally west of 40th and north of Cornhusker Hwy.
- Delayed action on proposed change of zone from A-2 single family to G local business at southwest corner of 13th and Arapahoe Sts.
- Denied proposed change of zone from H-2 to K light at 12th and Springfield.

Child hurt seriously in two-car collision

A 4-year-old girl's foot was severed Saturday in a two-car accident in Lincoln.

Lincoln police said the girl, Billie Jean Pearson, also suffered face and head lacerations. She was reported in serious condition Monday at St. Elizabeth's Community Health Center.

She was a passenger, along with her sister 3-year-old Christina Viola Pearson, in a car driven by her father, William C. Pearson, 30, all of Firth.

Pearson was reported in good condition Monday at Bryan Memorial Hospital. He suffered a concussion and lacerations to the face and head.

His daughter Christina was treated for head lacerations at Bryan Memorial Hospital and released.

The accident occurred when the Pearson car collided with a van driven by Royce Jackson, 24, of 2442 Vine St. Jackson was not hospitalized.

The cars collided at the intersection of Elkcrest and 56th and slammed into a light signal pole at the Northeast corner of the intersection.

Jackson received a citation for failure to yield the right of way, Lincoln police said.

Merlyn McLaughlin longtime aviator.

Aerospace ed honor is going to Lincoln man

Merlyn McLaughlin, 6230 Sunrise Rd., will be inducted into the National Aerospace Education Association Hall of Honor April 2 in Nashville.

McLaughlin has represented the United States at international aeronautic conventions five times and has won awards from the National Aeronautics Association, University Aviation Association and the University of Denver, where he founded a study program in aviation management.

McLaughlin first rode in an airplane in 1918 and soloed in 1924.

He is former president of the College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery in Des Moines. McLaughlin moved to Lincoln in 1966 as a vice president of Pioneer Insurance Co.

Several persons injured in mishaps hospitalized

A Lincoln woman, Carol Marshall, 23, was still listed in serious condition Monday following an accident Saturday three miles west of Eagle on U.S. 34. She was a passenger in a car driven by Steven Robertson, 27, who was killed in the mishap.

The driver of the other car in the accident, Shirley Kempkes, 42, of Walton remained in fair condition at a local hospital.

Jerry York of Lincoln, who was injured in an accident early Sunday morning on the 10th St. Viaduct, remains in fair condition in a local hospital.

Helen Cambell, 39, of Columbus, is listed in good condition. She previously had been reported in fair condition following an accident Saturday north of Lincoln on U.S. 79.

The lone survivors of a Gretna accident early Sunday that killed two, Carol Kennel, remains in critical condition at Midlands Community Hospital in Papillion.

News service reports of that accident, which appeared in the Star incorrectly identified Brian Hahn, 30, of Springfield as the driver of a pickup eastbound on U.S. 6, three miles west of Gretna. The pickup was driven by Graydon Rocz, 40, of Ralston. It crossed over the center line and smashed into the car driven by Hahn. Both Hahn and Rocz were killed. Miss Kennel was a passenger in the Hahn automobile.

Electricity cost was incorrect

A campaign statement by city council candidate Dorothy Walker Friday incorrectly stated the cost of electricity furnished by the Lincoln Electric System.

The correct figures are that customers using less than 300 kilowatts pay 3.2 cents per kilowatt, customers using between 300 and 1,000 pay 2.45 cents and those using over 1,000 pay 1.65 cents under LES winter residential rates, Ms. Walker said.

Wood taken from construction site

Weekend snow was a clue for Lincoln police in the theft of 60 sheets of 4-by-8-foot plywood from a housing construction site.

Police said the lumber, taken from a Bounty Homes site at 154 Oregon Trail, had to have been taken before the Saturday snowfall.

Omaha girl, 18, dies from accident injuries

By United Press International
Lisa J. Cannon, 18, Omaha, died Monday of injuries suffered Thursday in a traffic accident just south of the Omaha city limits in Sarpy County, the State Patrol said.

Miss Cannon was a passenger in a car driven by Donald W. Meyer Jr., 21, Omaha, who was also killed.

The patrol also received a delayed report of the death Feb. 5 of Shirley A. Brewer, 16, Imperial, who was killed when she jumped from a car driven by Jeffrey Sughrue, 21, Enders. Authorities said the car was traveling about 55 miles per hour at the time.

The fatality report was delayed by an autopsy. The incident occurred about eight miles north of Imperial.

Chase County Attorney Guy Curtis said it was unknown why the girl jumped from the car. No charges were filed.

Vandals pelt 7 library windows

Vandals damaged seven windows at the Charles H. Gere Library at 56th and Normal Blvd. with shots from a BB or pellet gun, police said.

Damaged were four 4-by-7-foot plate windows at the northwest entrance and three 6-by-8-foot tinted windows on the north and east sides, police said.

Viscount dies

London (AP) — Viscount Cobham, the governor-general of New Zealand from 1967 to 1968, died at the age of 67.

Born Charles John Lyttelton, he succeeded his father as the 10th viscount in 1940.

Rustler on wheels sought

Police Monday were seeking a rustler on wheels who struck a Capitol Beach home.

A man driving a white older-model car made off with a decorative steer's head from the front lawn of Marilyn J. Allan early Monday morning, Mrs. Allan told police.

The bleached-white skull had been attached by wire to a wagon wheel at the 462 West Lakeshore Dr. home, she said.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another in this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Astrological Forecast by Sidney Omari

Tuesday, March 22, 1977

Many persons confront an astrologer and insist, "Guess my sign!" This becomes tiresome. I decided to reverse the procedure. I was introduced to a doctor at a social gathering. I leered at him and challenged, "Tell me what's wrong with me!" The last time I caught sight of this physician he was slugging down Scotch, three in a row fast -- and he was scotch. He had told him he was probably a Scorpio. His eyes bulged and he tossed down two more beverages. His wife smiled at me and told her husband, "Let's go home. Scorpios can't drink. I can't drink either." If Dr. Scorpio reads this, I am sorry. But I had to do it -- just this once!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on personal possessions, valuables, money and how it gets that way. Be ready to count your change, to analyze written material. Take nothing for granted. Member of opposite sex needs a compliment -- and expects it. The rest is up to you!

TAURUS (April 20-May 21): Lunar cycle is such that you ride wave of popularity. Welcome challenge. Timing is on target. One who adores you says and your morale soars. Wear bright colors. Be conspicuous. There is no need for you to take a back seat!

GEMINI (May 22-June 21): Check behind the scenes. You might be a participant in a clandestine conference. Be sophisticated, not added Message will become increasingly clear. Perceive trends -- protect self in emotional clinches. Places, Virgo individuals could be involved.

CANCER (June 22-July 22): Emphasis on friendship, congeniality. Be independent in your own talents, ideas. Bring priorities into focus. Accept added responsibility. You are on your own which sets you ultimately achieving a major goal. Don't let any person rob you of your confidence!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Outlook is cheerful. You thrive on challenge. Achievement is accepted. You're due for more recognition, perhaps in form of promotion. Aries, Libra figure prominently. Professional superior says you have made room for yourself at top. Celebrate!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take initiative, make new starts. Be independent in thought, action. Highlight creative endeavors. Accent on communications.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to sort out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more subtract 6. If the number is less than 6 add 6. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every six at your key number, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
